Opportunity for legal challenge to Caltrans' freeway is drawing near

By DAVID LELAND

THE 30-day window to file a lawsuit opposing Hatton Canyon could begin by week's end as the result of Caltrans filing a statement of over-riding consideration regarding the proposed freeway.

That document, which was sent to the state Department of Planning and Research, supports Caltrans' belief that environmental damage to the canyon is unavoidable as a result of a four-lane, 3.1-mile stretch of freeway.

"You either live with congestion or you do this thing," said Tom Pollock, District 5 director, who will retire from his position at the end of the month to work in structural design at Caltrans' Sacramento office. "The (adverse environmental) impacts are overweighed by the benefits of the project."

Pollock said the 20-odd page letter sent to Planning and Research Dec. 3 lists his department's findings in the areas of noise, wetlands, rare and endangered species, flood plain, wildlife, aesthetics and cultural impacts.

In its conclusion, Caltrans asks for a ruling of overriding consideration.

Planning and Research publishes such letters weekly. When Caltrans' letter is published, the 30-day window to file a lawsuit begins, Pollock said.

Looking back on his 5 1/2 years with Caltrans dealing with Hatton Canyon, Pollock said he believes that both sides have approached the issue emotionally, rather than logically.

"I really wish we could have thought about this more rationally," Pollock said. "There's been an unwillingness to accept the magnitude of this problem."

Several weeks ago, the U.S. Dept. of Transportation (Federal Highway Administration) opted to back Caltrans' Final Environmental Impact Statement for a freeway through Hatton Canyon, rather than widening Highway 1, as has been endorsed by an increasing number of residents.

In all, the agency received 568 letters condemning the freeway and only five in support.

Skip Lloyd, Hatton Canyon Coalition chairman, said he is confident that derogatory comments in FEIS by the federal, state and local entities concerning Caltrans' plan will influence any future legal decision.

"It's one thing if you have a citizen's group," said Lloyd, referring to his grassroots campaign. "But it's something else when you have federal and state agencies (joining in). How can a judge ignore that?"

Indeed, U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service, in a letter written to the Federal Highway Administration, said its point of view was ignored in the FEIS.

"Virtually none of the submitted comments by the service were addressed in the FEIS," the letter said. "The service recommends writing a supplemental FEIS to address our concerns for the preferred alternative."

Fish & Game also balked at Caltrans' public statements that the two agencies were working hand in hand in providing mitigation for Hatton Canyon.

"The service never concurred with any mitigation plan for this project...the statement that the service concurred with the mitigation plan is misleading and absolutely incorrect," wrote Fish & Game. "We have stated in the past that the service did not support the Hatton Canyon alternative due to substantial adverse impact on wetlands."

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, which would issue a federal 404 permit to Caltrans for work in Hatton Canyon, also found fault with the FEIS' proposed mitigations plan.

"The mitigation plan, as proposed, would not adequately compensate for the adverse impacts to the aquatic or terrestrial habitat incurred by the construction of a freeway through Hatton Canyon," wrote Max Blodget, acting chief of construction operations. "The FEIS contains numerous inadequacies and inaccuracies."

On a state level, the Department of Fish & Game pushed for further study.

"The department strongly recommends that a supplemental environmental document be prepared to deal with these significant environmental shortfalls," said Brian Hunter, regional manager, adding that Caltrans should have updated data compiled in 1986. "Reliance on data more than five years old for a project which proposes such significant environmental impacts on an area...requires a more comprehensive and contemporary view than the existing document."

Carmel, like Pacific Grove, has gone on record opposing a major freeway through the canyon.

Earlier this week, the Monterey Regional Park District Board of Directors unanimously voted to support a resolution advocating the preservation of Hatton Canyon and urging Caltrans to seek other traffic alternatives.

Fresh on the heels of the federal endorsement, the FEIS will undergo scrutiny before the state Transportation Commission next week.

A hearing has been scheduled for 10 a.m. Thursday, Dec. 12, in the San Mateo City Council Chambers, 330 West 20th Ave. in San Mateo.

The assembly is concerned solely with the FEIS and whether that document will be adequate when the commission considers funding the $33.4 million project sometime in the future, according to Pete Hathaway, deputy director of the state Transportation Commission.

In other words, the hearing will not deal with alternative plans for a road outside the four-lane freeway planned for Hatton Canyon.

Specifics will come before the commission after Caltrans has completed its final design stage, Hathaway said.

Hathaway added that those granted permission to speak before the commission will be limited to about five minutes.

The City of Carmel will be represented by its consultant, Wilbur Smith.

Council to ponder live music ordinance at its Tuesday, Dec. 10 meeting

ROBERT PRESTON played The Music Man on Broadway. From now on, Carmel Mayor Jean Grace respectfully could be called The Music Woman.

At her request, Carmel council members will consider a new ordinance at their regular session — local legislation knocking out the 52-year-old ban on live music in commercial sites that serve alcohol.

The meeting is scheduled for 4 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 10, in the council chambers.

The existing law blocks not only live music at those establishments, but also live entertainment in general and public dances as well as jukeboxes. It was enacted in 1939 after artists lobbied for quietude.

"I believe we should delete this prohibition," Mayor Grace wrote in a memo sent to council last month. "We have heard repeated community and council concern that this prohibition is unreasonable and detracts from the fun and cultural ambiance of Carmel."

The mayor asked that the draft ordinance contain certain limits upon the live music scene: No more than three persons to perform at one time, solo artists only after 10 p.m., music confined to business establishments, proper sound level mandated.

Council could alter the draft, toss it or accept it as written. If approved, the ordinance would face a second reading at January's meeting.

Other council agenda items include:

• Proclaiming 1992 the Year of Carmel-by-the-Sea Forest. The program is designed to increase community support and understanding of the city's urban forest.

• Mayor Jean Grace's nomination of Gary Girard, a professional landscape gardener, to the Forest and Beach Commission.

A longtime volunteer with the Lester Rowntree Memorial Arboretum Committee, and experienced proponent of drought-resistant vegetation, Girard would replace Brian Jacobsen, who is retiring from his post at the end of December.

•Scheduling a workshop for Tuesday, Jan. 21, to discuss the city's preparedness for a wildland-urban fire. Roofing materials will also be discussed at the meeting.

•Consider a request from Councilman Bob Fischer which would involve preparation of a booklet on sign restrictions and administrative issuance of commercial sign applications.

Suspect sought in Carmel Plaza theft

CARMEL POLICE sought Wednesday to question a "specific individual" in connection with a burglary that occurred at Football USA on Carmel Plaza's upper level.

Detective Sgt. Pete Poitras said the burglar got "under $200 cash and a sports watch" after forcing the establishment's front door Saturday night or early Sunday morning.

"We're seeking a specific individual for questioning," Poitras added. "He's not a suspect at this point, but an interview will occur."

A form of charity

Dear Editor:

Since my husband and I had to spend last year in San Francisco we took advantage of the opportunity to do an in-depth traffic study (actually, one doesn't have much choice) in the hope of gaining some insight into our difficulties here in Carmel. Here are the results of our study.

1. There are no freeways through San Francisco on Highway 1 or on Highway 101. If San Francisco can get along without them, can it be that we really need a freeway in Carmel?

2. Traffic flows very well on both l9th Ave (Highway l) and Van Ness Ave (101), even at rush hour, because the lights on these streets are timed. It's usually possible to drive through several lights before having to stop for a red. During non-rush hours, one can drive at about 35 mph from one end of these streets to the other without ever stopping at all!

3. If there's a lot of traffic, 4-way stop signs are a disaster. At a 4-way stop, every car has to stop and start again. It takes much longer for traffic to get through. The very worst condition is a 4-way stop after a traffic light. A number of cars go through the light, but since all have to stop at the stop sign, there usually isn't enough room for all of them in the block preceding the 4-way stop and traffic gets backed up even beyond the traffic light (it's green, but there's no place to go.)

4. After a concert, game or a big day at the shopping mall, when the policeman is out directing traffic, he motions a number of cars through from each direction in turn. In other words, he acts like a traffic LIGHT, not like a four-way stop. He knows that traffic gets unsnarled a lot faster that way.

How does all this relate to Carmel? At the mouth of Carmel valley there is no traffic light, only a stop sign for cars coming west. Since those cars would turn to rust if they had to wait for a hole in the traffic on Hwy 1, cars going north and south stop for them. Carmel people take pride in this display of good manners—and rightly so. But, unfortunately, the net effect of everyone stopping at the mouth of Carmel Valley Road is a FOUR-WAY STOP. The worst! And, worse yet, it's a four-way stop which is preceded by a traffic light no matter which direction one is coming from. Traffic backed up behind those lights; green lights during which no one can move because there's no place to go: these are scenes that are all too familiar to us who use those roads. We almost think we invented them!

My husband and I would like to make a strong plea to the City of Carmel and Monterey County to put a TRAFFIC LIGHT at the mouth of Carmel Valley. Traffic would flow through much more efficiently. An added bonus is that cars coming down from the Valley could make a left turn onto Hwy 1 (at the same time that other cars were turning right), thereby relieving some of the congestion on Rio Road.

It is absolutely vital that all the lights in the area be TIMED in coordination with each other, so that as many cars as possible can get through without having to stop at all.

We realize that the addition of a traffic light is not in itself the ultimate solution. An extra lane on Hwy 1 could make a big difference. But the light would be of enormous benefit even in the present conditions. And it could make assessment of the ultimate needs of the area more accurate.

In any case, while the debate goes on about final solutions, why not take pity on the people who have to use those roads every day? Let's get a traffic light put in NOW. At the very least, it's the cheapest and most most efficient form of charity.

To protect and serve

Dear Editor:

During the weekend of Sept. 20, I was in Carmel and was enjoying my stay. That is until I misplaced my car. It seemed like such a stupid thing to do. Well, I looked all over the city for it, but to no avail. I didn't know where else to turn, so I called the police. While I dialed the phone I thought to myself, they have better things to do than look for my car. But I called anyway. I was greeted by a friendly female voice. I told her of my trouble and asked if the police even look for lost cars. I was relieved when she said that I was not unique.

She told me to stay where I was and an officer would meet me. An officer arrived and he had me get into the care with him. He made me feel at ease and said that this, "happens all the time." I never once felt that I was putting the officer out, or keeping him from something more important.

We finally found my car about 10 minutes later. I was very appreciative and vowed to never do such a silly thing again. He just smiled and said he was glad he could help. He even waited until I found my keys and got into the care.

To protect and serve.....what a nice phrase.

Commitment to the public

Dear Editor:

Recently I visited your city and was quite impressed by its beauty and charm. The last time I was in a city so quaint was in Germany. The hospitality and the people I met were very similar.

While I was in your city I had occasion to walk down Ocean Avenue. I was marveling at the shops when I heard someone screaming across the street. I looked and saw a man wandering aimlessly on the sidewalk. He appeared to be mad at everyone, spouting off jiberish.

Not more than a minute into his tirade, I saw a patrolman pull up. The policeman walked up to the man and, I assume, asked what his problem was. The man then began to verbally accost the policeman in a profane way. The policeman stood steadfast and let the man continue his tirade. A crowd began to gather and I, being nosy, also approached the two.

After the man finished his tongue lashing of the policeman and the crowd, I heard the policeman ask in a very soft voice, "What can I do to help you?" I couldn't believe what I was hearing. After all this man had said to this policeman, he was still willing to help him in whatever capacity he could. In my city, San Francisco, this man would have either been "run in" or not given the time of day. But that wasn't the best part of this encounter.

After about another five minutes of talking between the two of them, the man began to cry. The officer patted him on the back and said, "Everything will be alright, I'll get you home." He put the man in his patrol car and drove off.

I was amazed at the communication skills that this officer possessed. Never have I seen a potentially volatile situation diffused in such a professional manner. The citizens of Carmel should be proud of policemen they employ. I have no doubt that the rest of the police department shares the same type of commitment to the public as did this officer. I only wish I could've gotten the name of the officer. He also deserves a pat on the back.

Coastal staff slams Pebble Beach Co. plans

By JOHN DETRO

STAFF CONCLUSIONS blasting and finally nixing the proposed private country club at Pebble Beach were scheduled to be voted on Tuesday in Los Angeles by California Coastal Commission.

The report written by staff lawyer Diane Landry will be addressed when commissioners gather at the Stauffer Concourse Hotel near Los Angeles International Airport.

Landry's analysis concluded that the membership plan of Pebble Beach Company runs counter to both the Coastal Act and the county's Local Coastal Program for Del Monte Forest. "(T)he proposal," she wrote, "will significantly reduce the public availability of Pebble Beach Golf Course and has the potential to virtually eliminate public use of Spyglass and Spanish Bay Golf Courses."

The state panel's mandate: keep the coastline open to the public. If commissioners adopt the report's recommended denial of that private membership plan, Japanese golf tycoon Minoru Isutani could be in deep trouble locally. He bought Pebble Beach facilities in September 1990 — golf courses, resort, two hotels, home building business — for $830 million. His organization needs income from high-ticket membership sales to repay the loans.

"I've long ago given up predicting what commissioners will do," Landry said during a telephone conversation. "Yes, I was the sole author of that report. I really don't have a sounding on what the result will be."

Attempts to reach Joseph Petrillo, San Francisco lawyer who speaks for Pebble Beach Company in the matter, were unsuccessful. If the country club outline saw defeat in Los Angeles, he could seek a Coastal Permit and county-level amendment to the Local Coastal Program.

County supervisors approved Isutani's Pebble Beach National Club plan last summer. The latest Landry report said an analysis of that outline "indicates that public access to the Pebble Beach shoreline will be substantially reduced and may be entirely eliminated for people who are neither hotel guests nor Monterey County residents."

Overall, the staff report said, all "outside player time" would be reduced by about 45 percent and "it is entirely possible that non-resident outside players would be completely excluded."

The report admitted that "some highly relevant information" was not available to the writer. It said the applicant "declined the requests" for the actual membership prospectus and extended statistics on golf course use.

"The allocation of 60 hotel rooms (for membership holders) has the potential under the current proposal to reduce the public availability of units at The Lodge by as much as 35 percent," the report continued. "This reduction is clearly inconsistent with the relevant Coastal Act policies and (Local Coastal Program) regulations...The proposal could also reduce the availability of rooms for the public at Spanish Bay by as much as 22 percent and is inconsistent with (existing regulations) and the permit granted by the commission for development of the resort. For these reasons...the project is inconsistent with (regulations) and must be denied."

Library funding OK'd through fiscal year

By DAVID LELAND

GIVEN THE deteriorating financial condition of the county, it appears unlikely that its on-going partnership with four city libraries will continue past July 1, the end of the current fiscal year.

That's the bad news.

The good news is that the county has authorized payment of $150,000 to the libraries of Carmel, Pacific Grove, Monterey and Salinas through June 30. Under the current agreement a total of $371,707 will be paid, down from last year's $443,000.

"The cities, in the cooperative spirit, recognizing the financial condition of the county, agreed to absorb some of the costs," said 4th District Supervisor Sam Karas, referring to a pact ageed upon Nov. 25 during a special meeting in Monterey.

Previously, the county and cities had stood at an impasse, with the county librarian offering $100,000 for the second half of the fiscal year. Under the new arrangement, the county will chip in $50,000.

Since 1972, the four cities have received partial funding from the county to offset expenditures for serving non-residents. More than three-quarters of Carmel's library patrons reside outside the city.

Last year the county contributed $82,000 to Carmel for materials and programs, while the city received $35,000 from the state.

Karas indicated that the average decrease under the new agreement would be $17,800 per city.

However, unless a committee of library representatives two supervisors, county administrative officer and county librarian can agree on the next fiscal year by April 7, the county will abandon its city-library funding — permanently.

"The financial situation of the county is starting to deteriorate," said 1st District Supervisor Marc Del Piero, adding that both sides of the issue are well-aware of the issue. "If we can't reach a decision by April, it's appropriate to say that's the end of it; the days of library subsidies may have passed."

County Librarian Dallas Shaffer told the board that her office will be in limbo until the issue is decided.

"Spending the $100,000 leaves the library with no contingency fund," she said. "We have no idea what will happen next year."

County Administrative Officer Ernest Morishita said that he was "optimistic" that funds from Measure B, which is currently tied up in court, could help fund libraries in the future.

He added that, at some point, the county should explore one library system to service all residents.

All supervisors express interest in the four libraries attempting to expand their hours, which have been reduced due to budget cuts.

"We need to work as hard as possible to get the library hours back up," said 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman. "The cuts have been so staggering we don't even have the same opening hours on different days of the Tree lighting celebration set for Friday, Dec. 6

THE CITY will conduct its annual Christmas Tree lighting ceremony at 6:20 p.m. Friday, Dec. 6, at Ocean and Junipero avenues.

Co-sponsored by the City, Carmel Business Association and Carmel Youth Center, the festivities begin at 3:30 p.m. with a Mad Hatter's tea party at Devendorf Park, which includes a visit from Santa Claus between 4:15-5:15 p.m.

Two events take place at 5:30 p.m. The Carmel High School Band plays at Devendorf Park and the carolers begin their walk from the First Murphy House at Lincoln Street and Sixth Avenue to Devendorf Park, where they will be joined by children carolers led by Santa.

Prior to the tree lighting ceremony, there will be an awards ceremony at 6:10 p.m. Refreshments will be provided throughout the event.

Jamie Warren

Not one to look back, he forges ahead with new projects

By SUSAN BECK

ON SUNDAY, Dec. 1, Jamie Warren officially parted ways as vice president and manager of The Lodge at Pebble Beach. On Tuesday, Dec. 3, he was checking out office space in Carmel Valley Village for his new business, Creative Events.

Without missing a beat, Warren is taking charge and reorganizing his life to accommodate the situation. Organizing is his key asset and has served him well.

For example, the Pebble Beach World Series Softball Tournament that he created, which attracted 70 major league baseball players. "These guys can go anywhere else to play in tournaments for free, but they chose to participate here for a price," said Warren.

The tournament was such a success that 85 percent of the players returned the next year.

With that kind of track record, Warren is sure to get things going with his new business. "I have a creative mind, and a lot of ideas. Some of them will fly, and that's all it takes."

The main theme of Creative Events is to coordinate 10 golf tournaments a year, but his focus is not limited to golf. Warren said that he working on another event arena that would be unique to the area, however, his idea is still in the early stages of development.

His immediate goal is to put on two golf tournaments in May or June. One here on the Monterey Peninsula and another somewhere else. Warren has worked for 15 years with people who do this type of thing, and the transition will be an easy one for him.

The key to being successful in this type of business is to provide value for the participants of the event, said Warren. Anticipating the needs of the players, offering quality courses, T-prizes, and awards, plus making sure that everyone gets involved and has fun yet still keeping the competitive edge is what makes a tournament marketable.

"Creating events is the perfect adjunct from the business I was in," said Warren. "I'm not unaware of the opportunities that came to me because of the desk I sat in at Pebble Beach, but I've made a lot of contacts and one thing for sure, I never burn any bridges."

In February, he will be working as an independent contractor in charge of coordinating the Mizuno Golf Tournament at Pebble Beach, which he created two years ago. He has also been offered positions in the hotel business elsewhere, but said that he wants to stay in Carmel Valley.

"I feel confident that this is the right time for Creative Events. Actually, I'm looking forward after so long of not having to wear a tie everyday. Now, I just want to relax a little. Pebble Beach was a great opportunity for me, and I took the ball and ran with it, but life goes on. I'm excited about the change."

Carmel Red Cross seeking proposals on spending donated funds for Big Sur area

THE CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA Chapter of the American Red Cross is committed to finding an alternate project for Big Sur residents consistent with the spirit of the funds that were orginally set aside for the Big Sur Ambulance Fund.

The $65,973 in the fund were donated over the years by individuals and organizations in the Big Sur area for the purpose of providing and maintaining ambulance service to the community.

However, the Red Cross ambulance service was terminated and replaced by another provider, which offers paramedic care. The restricted purpose for which the funds were designated no longer exist.

The chapter board of directors will decide how the funds are to be used, but proposals for programs are being sought from non-profit organizations within the jurisdiction of the chapter for the use of all or part of the funds.

The final decision will be made by May 28, 1992. For criteria and sumittal informatin call the chapter manager, Lynette Balesteri at 624-6921.

Water experts say peninsula water supply holding steady

By FRANK GEORGE

ALTHOUGH CARMEL could be entering a sixth year of drought, water district officials say enough water is left over from last year to carry the peninsula through another dry rainy season.

"If (the rainfall) is normal, no problem," Darby Fuerst, water resources manager for the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District said. "If it's below normal, we'll have enough to continue without mandatory rationing (until next year)."

Fuerst added that 28,000 acre feet are stored in Carmel River reservoirs, the upper and lower Carmel Valley aquifers and the Seaside aquifer.

Since Cal-Am has sold only 12,000 acre feet per year over the past three years, two years worth of water are left, Fuerst deduced.The lower aquifer in particular looks healthy he said noting that it holds 8,000 acre feet more than it had last year.

But the resources manager cautioned that the present water-conscious attitude will need to continue if the drought continues. He praised district water users for maintaining a 30 percent rationing rate while they are only asked to save 10 percent.

Meanwhile, Fuerst said the peninsula received 150 percent of its normal rainfall in October. The 1.03 inches combined with the below-average .37 of an inch that fell in November puts the local total at half of its cumulative average.

"It can change that quickly," Fuerst said. "We're now at 50 percent, but last month we were at 150 percent."

Moreover, Fuerst said Carmel River stream flow is at 25 percent of its capacity while the reservoirs could hold another 1,500 acre feet. Fuerst's breakdown puts 1,000 acre feet in the Los Padres and San Clemente reservoirs, 17,000 acre feet in the lower valley, 2,000 acre feet in the Seaside aquifer and 6,500 acre feet in the upper-valley watershed.

Fuerst explained that the upper valley supply is kept close to capacity because it is pumped only to maintain riparian and wildlife habitats. The upper aquifer ranges from the San Clemente Dam to Scarlett Road, and the lower aquifer runs from that point to the mouth of the river at Carmel Beach.

In other water news, newcomer Fran Farina and incumbents Dick Heuer, Jim Hughes and Ken Long will be sworn into the district's board of directors in a special session on Dec. 9. The swearing-in will be held in the district conference room at 187 El Dorado St. in Monterey.

'If (the rainfall) is normal, no problem, If it's below normal, we'll have enough to continue without mandatory rationing (until next year).'

Darby Fuerst

The ceremony will pre-empt a closed session, which will be led by David Laredo, the district's lawyer. Laredo will discuss the district's water rights pertaining to the proposed Carmel River dam and the State Water Resources Control Board (SWRCB).

The SWRCB is one of many state and federal boards an agencies that must approve the dam before it is built.

Happy endings

CHELSEA ANN, our beautiful German Shepherd, has been almost a regular feature in this column for the past few months as we've tried to find a home for her. I'm delighted to tell you that she is now Chelsea Ann Klutcher and her new mom and dad, Rosalie and Bob, are proud parents. They love her dearly and although it took her a little while to adjust to Bob (because she was fearful of men), she's now giving him big slurpy kisses and learning to enjoy her wonderful new life.

I'm overjoyed to share a happy ending to the story in my Aug. 1 column about "Baby," a beautiful Cocker spaniel pup who was brutally beaten by her owner. A felony charge of animal abuse was brought against him and after almost five months of hearings, Baby's owner was sentenced in Pasadena Superior Court on Nov. 20. He will spend 30 days in jail, 3 years probation and perform 100 hours of community service at an animal shelter. The best part of this story is that he will not be Baby's owner anymore.

The DDPF had literally hundreds of people phoning and writing who wanted to care for Baby. But only one of those people came to all the court hearings to show her commitment to this cause and her deep concern for Baby's well-being. Her constant presence and gentle persuasion won us over, so last week, with Dr. Collett's blessing, Baby was turned over to Helen Nambe and her husband, Ben.

Baby is having the time of her life in her new surroundings. She loves to race around her huge fenced yard—that's a puppy dog's heaven. It's beautifully terraced and planted with roses, azaleas and shade trees. Baby has the run of the house, and since Helen is home all day, she never lacks for attention. She absolutely adores Ben, and when he gets home from work, Baby waits for him to get down on the floor so they can play. The day Baby went to her new home, Ben took the day off work and when they arrived at the house, Ben went to his workshop and built a feeding stand for Baby's bowl so she wouldn't have to bend over so far to eat!

This little gal is really living the good life, and we're thrilled to have been a part of this very happy ending!

That's all for this week. See you next time!

(Written in collaboration with Judy Ruby, Director, Doris Day Pet Foundation, Los Angeles).

Ribbon-cutting ceremony marks opening of Highlands road project

CARMEL HIGHLANDS residents and Monterey County officials will gather at the entrance to San Remo Road Road at Highway 1 at 10 a.m. on Dec. 7, as 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman performs the ribbon-cutting to mark completion of a joint effort county-resident road paving project.

Following years of dust clouds, washboard dirt surfaces, slipping, sliding, skidding and excessive noises in vehicular travel on a half mile of unimproved county road coming off Highway 1, interested residents meeting with Strasser Kauffman and county officials were able to work out a joint funding plan for paving this stretch of road.

It was planned to coincide with other county paving schedules in this area so costs could be minimized. Residents in the Highlands said they were pleased to contribute funds to defray half the paving costs.

Highly instrumental in making this all come to pass are: Strasser Kauffman; Gerald J. Gromko, director of public works; David Gates, deputy director of Public Works, Monterey County; and Leland Lewis, a Highlands resident.

"We owe a great vote of thanks to these people for their untiring efforts in this endeavor," said one long-time Highlander.

Another said: "It's sheer joy to travel down the mountain to Highway 1. For the first time, I feel I'm in total control of my car."

City's tree seedling giveaway is Dec. 7

THE FOREST and Beach Commission of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea invites residents to participate in our Annual Tree Seedling Giveaway Day.

The event will be held on Saturday, Dec. 7, beginning at 8 a.m. in the Carmel Post Office parking lot at Dolores and Fifth.

The annual "Tree Day" was initiated by the Forestry Commission in 1963 to stimulate Carmel residents to plant pine seedlings in the Carmel area to increase the tree population. This program has resulted in the distribution of over 75,000 seedlings over the past 27 years.

This year 1,500 pine seedlings will be available. The Forestry staff collected seeds from some of our old native trees. These seeds readily germinated and are now vigorously growing in small plastic containers ready to be planted on your property. The seedlings are distributed on a first-come, first-served basis, so plan to arrive early.

This year the Friends of Carmel Forest will also participate in this event. They will be distributing two interesting and informative pamphlets. The first pamphlet is a self-guided walking tour of over 60 heritage trees in the Carmel village, the second pamphlet gives details on adopt/plant a tree programs, and is published with assistance from Soroptomist International of Carmel Bay.

Red Cross blood drive is Dec. 5

A RED Cross/Community Hospital blood drive will be held from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 5 at the American Legion Hall in Carmel, Eighth and Dolores streets.

For more information, call Community Hospital at 625-4814 or Carmel Red Cross at 624-6921.

CFD opens toy drive

THE CARMEL-by-the-Sea Fire Department is conducting a drive to raise food and toys for needy families on the Peninsula this Christmas. The drive will begin the day after Thanksgiving and will continue until Christmas Eve.

The fire department will be accepting donations in the form of canned and non-perishable foods, workable toys, money and any other appropriate gifts. Any and all contributions will be deeply appreciated. Once collected, the donated items will be distributed by the Salvation Army.

Donations may be dropped off at the fire department on Sixth Street between San Carlos and Mission, daily from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m.

For further information, you may contact Mitch Kastros at the fire department, 624-1718.

Friday, December 13th

Reid Galleries, in The Barnyard, Carmel are sponsoring a free lecture, December 13th at 6 P.M., by the noted author, photographer, gardener, artist, Elizabeth Murray.

Elizabeth Murray has had a long time love affair with Monet's Garden in Giverny France. Murray wanted to know the garden intimately – in all seasons, stages, and lightings. "You can't know a garden from one visit. The best way to know it is to work in it", she said. So Elizabeth packed up her house and quit her job as a head gardener in Carmel and moved to the modest village 55 miles west of Paris where she spent six months planting, photographing, and working in the garden in 1985.

Upon her return, loaded down with hundreds of photographs, notes, and ideas, Elizabeth organized this abundance of information into her wonderful book, "Monet's Passion: Ideas, Insights, and Inspiration From The Painter's Garden" now in its fourth printing. Ms. Murray is also the author of "Home Landscaping" (1988 Simon and Schuster).

This year Elizabeth returned to Giverny, this time for 6 months, again to paint, photograph and work in the gardens. Her lecture will cover her experiences in France during both sojourns along with a slide show, and tips for gardening and photographing our own beautiful area.

Reservations are required for this FREE lecture and can be made by calling the Reid Galleries at 624-4243

Following the lecture and beginning at 7:30 PM there will be a reception at the gallery for the artist and a one woman show of the complete works of this multi-talented artist. The show is open to the public and reservations are not required.

Lecture 6 P.M. to 7 P.M. – RSVP
Reception & Show 7:30 P.M. to 9:00 P.M. – No reservation required.

A little TLC

MANY OF Carmel's trees, beset by drought, insects and the crowded growing spaces of the sidewalked areas downtown, need some tender loving care and residents and business persons are being asked to volunteer to give it.

An "Adopt-A-Tree" program has been established jointly by the Friends of Carmel Forest and Soroptomist International of Carmel Bay, in cooperation with the Beach and Forestry Department of Carmel-by-the-Sea.

Residents and business persons are asked to take a careful look at the trees outside their homes or stores or offices. Generally, even the untrained eye can tell if a tree isn't doing well. What to do about it is described in printed material available at the office of City Forester Gary Kelly, Junipero south of 4th, east side, or by a postcard to Friends of Carmel Forest, P.O. Box 344, Carmel 93921.

In brief, here is the essence of the "Adopt-A-Tree" care program:

Young trees, those newly planted or up to 2 or 3 feet in height, require watering every two weeks until the roots are developed. Growth will be aided by mixing a little Miracle-Gro in the water or spreading a little long-lasting slow release fertilizer Osmocote around the base.

Those caring for a young tree might want to measure the growth after a year, and report the progress to the Friends at the box number above.

Mature trees which show need should be deep watered and fertilized a couple of times during the fall and winter. Watering must be slow and deep, four feet away from the trunk, with the soil wet to a depth of 18 to 24 inches. It takes about 10 gallons of water for each 10 square feet of root area. If the tree can be reached with a hose, use a soaker placed at the drip line (the outmost end of the branches.) a hose-end watering probe is effective, used at the dripline, 3 feet apart, eight to 10 minutes at each spot.

Where there is room to spread mulch, most trees will benefit from a 3-inch layer. This will help maintain soil moisture, reduce drying and cracking, inhibit weed growth and prevent soil compaction from foot traffic. Sometimes the forestry department has mulch free for the taking (see telephone number below).

Monterey pines are particularly susceptible to attack from the Red Turpentine bark beetle. The beetles are attracted to home-building sites by the smell of the sawn lumber. Not interested in grappling with dead wood, the beetles then bore into nearby trees.

On trees which have been invaded, or "hit," by the bark beetle, there will be a pinkish sawdust or fine popcorn-like material in a small heap, usually at the base. This is "frass" and is the digested wood from the beetle's boring.

Up from the frass, look for the beetle's "pitch tub" entrance-hole marker, a small clump of sticky material ranging in color from light pink to brownish-red, with a small hole in the center. Dr. Roy Thomas, of the Forest and Beach Commission, reports success by inserting into the hole a termite spray available at hardware stores. Another method is to use hammer and chisel to follow the tube into the beetle's hiding place.

Full instructions for beetle eradication are given in a pamphlet available at the city forester's office. Beetle presence in a tree can cause yellowing and death of individual branches. If these conditions are noted, action is called for, either by the individual or an alert to village forces.

Tree-supporters who are participating in the "Adopt-A-Tree" program are asked to call Friends of Carmel Forest, 626-1610, or the city forester' office, 624-3543.

The versatile cranberry

THE HOLIDAY season is upon us. This time of year brings the challenge of combining new ideas with the traditional uses and cranberries are certainly the plentiful and colorful "tis the season" fruit.

These reddish berries are purchased fresh, frozen, canned, bottled and now dried. They lend themselves beautifully to juices, sauces, relishes, chutneys,breads, stuffings, desserts., etc.. The season for cranberries is September through December.

In choosing fresh cranberries make sure they are plump and firm with good luster and color. Since most fresh cranberries come in the plastic one pound or 12 ounce bags, just sort out any soft, sticky or leaky ones so they don't give an off-flavor to what is being prepared. They will keep one to two months in the refrigerator if stored in plastic and much longer if frozen.

They are predominantly grown in Massachusetts, New Jersey, Wisconsin, Oregon and Washington. Even though there are over 100 known varieties four account for most grown in North America. They are the Early Black, Howes, Searles and McFarlin. The McFarlin was named after Charles Dexter McFarlin who was the first commercial grower on the West Coast in the late 1800's even though he was from Carver, Mass.

When buying cranberries for the holidays try playing around with the dried cranberries, they will keep up to one year, sealed and stored in a cool and dry place. For a new twist on hot scones smothered with clotted cream and curd and cranberry sauce try my

CRANBERRY GINGER SCONES WITH TANGERINE CURD

Ingredients:

2 cups all-purpose flour
1 TBSP. baking powder
2 TBSP. sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
6 TBSP. unsalted chilled butter
1/2 cup dried cranberries
(optional: 1/4 cup golden raisins and or currants)
1 TBSP. crystallized ginger, finely chopped
2 eggs
1/3 cup heavy cream
eggwash (one beaten egg)
Some extra sugar combined with a little chopped crystallized ginger to sprinkle on tops

Method: Heat oven to 375 degrees and lightly grease a baking sheet. In a bowl thoroughly sift the flour, baking powder, sugar and salt together. Then cut in the butter until it resembles coarse meal (sometimes I do this cutting in a food processor on pulse just a few times). Then mix in dried cranberries, raisins and or currants and chopped ginger.

In a separate bowl beat eggs and cream together. Make a well in the dry ingredients and pour the egg mixture in mixing lightly with a fork just until dough comes together. Knead a few times on a lightly floured board. Then roll or pat dough out to about 3/4 inch thick. Cut with star or leaf shaped floured cookie cutters. Place on baking sheet and brush with eggwash and sprinkle with sugar-ginger mixture. Bake for about 10-12 minutes or until golden brown.

TANGERINE CURD
(about 3 cups)

Ingredients:
1 cup sugar
6 egg yolks, beaten

Neo-Traditionalist Community Thanksgiving

PEOPLE WHO have volunteered for a long time don't think it's important to remember exactly how many years the Community Holiday Dinner has been held on Thanksgiving Day. It's a loose event. Not much PR. No unwieldy committee. People just show up; to help and to eat.

This year more than 300 volunteers from all over the peninsula converged on the Monterey Fairgrounds to offer a hand. Sylvia Quarles, who dates her first time volunteering at the Community Dinner to "about 20 years ago," greeted the people gathered this Thanksgiving with a simple thought.

"We are truly grateful as Americans for the necessities of life, food, shelter and clothing. Let the feast begin!" The aroma of turkey, dressing and pumpkin pie filled the air as hundreds of people were served from huge steaming platters of food and sat to share a meal together at the holiday tables.

Outside, a young woman drove up and asked and man and little boy who were waiting in line, "Excuse me, does it cost anything to eat here?"

"It's free," the man said. The woman made a U-turn, parked her car and took a place in line.

In spite of what George Bush says about a "non-recession" this year's Thanksgiving brought the plight of many Americans to light. Remember them this holiday season.

THE BOYS OF AUTUMN

"If you flood it they will come." The Carmel High alums who heed this call traditionally gather on Thanksgiving Day at the fallow field next to Martin's Produce stand in Carmel Valley. For the past five years, dozens of young men arrive at an unannounced time known only to them to battle it out on the muddy gridiron that was most recently a pumpkin patch.

First the field is hosed down by volunteer fire fighters creating a football stadium sea of goo with a small pond in the vicinity of the 50 yard line. Teams are made up of ex-jocks from the Carmel, Mid-Valley and Seaside fire departments. This rite of fall is the annual "Mud Bowl."

The action is basic knock-em-down, here's mud-in-your-eye football. The object of the game is to score AND see how many times you can fall down. All the plays seem to happen in the deepest mire — center field. Players who are normally mature young men have been seen jumping up and down in the slop just for the pure fun of it.

Uniforms are optional. After the first play brown-on-brown is standard team issue. This year Raoul Mayorga, who's family owns Martin's Produce and who hosted the big game, was one of the few recognizable players at this year's game. He wore a red bandanna.

PUDDING PARTY

To many people, particularly those of English extraction, a flaming plum pudding is the highlight of a traditional Christmas dinner. To the Lloyd, Williams, Morrow, Criley, and Lofton families and friends the Saturday following Thanksgiving is plum pudding day. Nancy Morrow credits Marjory Lloyd with starting the tradition, some 30 years ago.

"I confessed to Marjory I had always wanted to make my own plum pudding," Nancy recalled, "and she said, 'well, come on, we'll do it together.'" Every year since then Nancy and Marjory's families have gotten together after Thanksgiving to chop, stir and pour the puddings into molds they've collected over the seasons.

"We make between 30 and 35 puddings," Nancy continued. "It's always been at my house, except for one year when we had a wild storm and the power was out. Jennefer Santee, Marjory's daughter had us come to her house on Carmel Point."

The laborious process is a labor of love for the families, who distribute the puddings to a long-established list of relatives and close friends. Plum puddings are typically made with suet and fondly called cannon balls but today's recipe has been modified to make the deserts more digestible.

It's still a two-step process. After the puddings are made they have to be steamed. This year for the first time Nancy Morrow divvied up the steaming duties and she was besieged with phone calls from new traditionalists just checking to make sure they were doing it right.

All we can say to the people at the Community Dinner, the Mud Bowl and the Pudding Party is, yes, you sure are doing it right.

The Festival of Trees, sponsored by the Monterey Museum of Art runs today through Sunday at the Monterey Fairgrounds. It's a Christmas Fiesta and Gus Arriola, El Teatro Campesino, the Monterey High Mariachi Band and 20 decorated Christmas trees are among the special holiday attractions on hand. Festival Chairmen Elaine Rankin and Dee Robertson say William Faulkner will be there. Who knows? Call 372-5477 for details.

The Big Sur Marathon has announced the addition of a 5K (3.1 mile) race to add to the Marathon and The Walk. The race, created to emphasize fitness in the community, will raise money for local charities. Entries are limited to the first 1,000 to sign up. Entry forms may be obtained after Feb. 1, 1992 by mailing a self addressed, stamped, business-size envelope to the 5K, Box 222620, Carmel, Ca. 93922.

Earth Day, 1992 will be celebrated at Toro Park on April 25. Chairs are needed for a variety of committees including the stage, fund raising, food booths and others. Call John Brennan, Facilities Manager, Natividad Medical Center at 755-4221 for information.

Old posters, issues of the Carmel Pine Cone and maps by Jo Mora will be on the block at the Old Carmel Memorabilia Auction, to be held at the La Playa Hotel on Dec. 11, 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Proceeds will benefit GroveMont Theater, whose programs include the Carmel Shakespeare Festival, the Monterey Bay Theatre Fest, the Monterey Playhouse and the Actors Performance Ensemble and the Fairy Tale Theater. Call GroveMont for details at 649-0340.

Gepetto's, Carmel's favorite collectible shop has outgrown its original location and has moved just across the street to a larger store at 233 Crossroads Blvd., Crossroads Shopping Village at Highway 1 and Rio Road in Carmel.

Gepetto's is quite a success story. Proprietors Dale Williams and Dennis Smiley opened Gepetto's nine years ago. Throughout the years, the in-house owner/operators have built the business on a foundation of warm personality with an informative staff, giving attentive customer service, listening to requests and by stocking a large unique selection of- traditional collectibles from both local and worldwide artisans.

And what a selection; Gepetto's offers something for everyone: Pewter Sculptures, Porcelain Statuary, Glass Figurines, Nutcrackers, David Winter Cottages, Tom Clark Gnomes, Music Boxes, Huggable Animals and one of the West Coasts largest selections of Handmade Teddy Bears, original and antique reproduction Dolls for the young at heart fill the shelves. "Collecting dolls and teddy bears is not a regression to childhood, says Dennis, collecting them is the same as collecting Art — it's an art form that increases in value as each year passes." The world moves so quickly and most everything is so negative, that everyone needs a Teddy or Doll to hug, to make oneself smile. You can't walk into Gepetto's without walking away happy.

Over the past decade John Pisto's Domenico's on the Wharf has received numerous dining awards and recognition from local and national press. Recently it was announced that once again Domenico's on the Wharf has received The Best of California -Award of Excellence from the prestigious Wine Spectator, for the extensive selection of California and European wines made available to Domenicos' clientele.

Domenico's was the first on the Peninsula to offer an extensive California and Monterey County wine list. Today you will find an uncompromising selection of these local vintners and the finest of European wines and champagne, as well as a full bar and lounge area.

Domenico's has also preserved the full-meal concept so difficult to find today, offering an appetizer, soup and salad with every entree. The restaurant will continue to serve the unique seafood specialties that contributed to its acclaim, in the true Italian spirit. A tantalizing oyster bar offering the Monterey Bay's freshest seafood from their private loading docks, and the house-made pasta add to the appeal of the restaurant. The now famous Pasta Capri is still on the menu and continues to draw raves from locals and visitors alike.

Chevys Mexican Restaurants, located in The Crossroads locally, and Visa announced a companywide Holiday Gift Certificate program, with proceeds to benefit the U.S. Marine Corps Reserve Toys for Tots Foundation. CHEVYS has set a goal of $20,000 which it hopes to raise for needy children in Northern California during the next 6 weeks!.

Chevys special $10 Holiday Gift Certificates can be purchased at all CHEVYS Mexican Restaurant locations through Dec. 24. With each Holiday Gift Certificate purchase, CHEVYS will donate 5 percent of the sale to the Toys for Tots Foundation. In addition, CHEVYS has placed Toys for Tots bins in each of its restaurants to collect toys. The Toys for Tots Foundation is only able to accept new and unwrapped gifts. The toys collected and the money raised to purchase toys will benefit needy children here in Northern California.

The U.S. Marine Corps Reserve Toys for Tots Program is a nationwide program established in 1947 to provide toys for needy children. Last year nearly 8 million toys were distributed across the nation. There are currently 34 Chevys locations in Northern California extending from Redding to Carmel.

Carmel Valley Outlook

CV Connections

By Kathleen Tarp

Santa's on his way

SANTA CLAUS is coming to town and Carmel Valley is as busy as little elves getting things ready for his arrival! For 33 years he has made Carmel Valley first on his list of visits and this year will be no different. All the town is gearing up for this special event on Dec. 14 at 11 a.m. when Santa lands at the Carmel Valley Airport.

For the past five years, Skip Marquard has made the long journey to the North Pole to personally escort Mr. and Mrs. Claus to the Village. It is a long and intense flight over the glaciers of the Arctic, but Marquard feels it is worth it. When he touches down at Santa's home, he will be greeted by about 30 elves and eight tiny reindeer. Everyone pitches in to help Skip load his plane with Santa and his lovely wife and then they begin the journey down to the Village of Carmel Valley. Marquard explained that throughout the flight, Santa is constantly questioning him about the children of the Monterey Peninsula. "You know, Santa is getting on in years but his memory is astounding!" stated Marquard. "It never ceases to amaze me that he knows every name and every address of each child and whether or not they've been bad or good."

This year Santa is in for a real surprise when he lands because for the first time ever, he and Mrs. Claus will be joined on their sleigh by one lucky little boy and girl. These special children will get to ride in the parade with Santa and be the first to sit on Santa's knee and whisper their Christmas wishes in Santa's ear. Tickets for this raffle can be purchased for $1 at the following stores in Carmel Valley Village: Ahoy There Toy Store, The Oak Deli, Kasey's, The Stock Exchange, The Sweet Retreat, Hacienda Video, Valley Video, The Village Market, and Carmel Valley Market or the Carmel Valley Community Center. The lucky boy and girl will be notified by telephone after the drawing on Dec. 13.

Starring with Santa this year will be Karin Camilli, Grand Marshall. Karin is Principal of Tularcitos Elementary School and her positive and progressive attitudes have made her a favorite of children and adults. "Santa will have fantastic support for his parade this year," stated Pam Stearns, chairperson for the event. "This will be the most exciting parade ever because we'll have a 125 piece spur of the moment marching kazoo band, 26 antique automobiles, Carmel Valley Village Improvement Committee will be in Stonepine's horse-drawn hayride wagon, and the Carmel Valley Fire Department will be there with lights ablaze and sirens wailing! Also, this is the first year that Carmel Valley Village businesses have been invited to participate so it will be bigger and better than ever before!" Everyone is invited to join in the kazoo band. Kazoos will be passed out at the airport at 10 a.m. along with lists of Christmas carols to be hummed. The Original Christmas Elf, Ms. Elyse Battey, will be on hand to M.C. the event with Gher ever effusive witty banter. Elyse is known throughout the community for her hyper-humor and her narration of the parade will probably be picked up by CNN.

After the parade, while children are waiting to visit Santa, everyone is in for a special treat because they will be entertained at the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center by numerous groups including Jacqueline Rossett Dickman's Theatre Arts Conservatory. Located in Carmel Woods, the Conservatory was opened in 1989 and students between the ages of three and 65 must pass an audition and interviews before being admitted into the school. The Conservatory has private and small group classes in piano, voice, guitar, creative dramatics, puppetry, and choral singing as well as traveling drama, puppet and Broadway Music troupes who perform throughout Monterey County. They will delight young and old with their sweet harmonies and magnificent renditions of Christmas carols. Performances will also be made by the infamous Pointless Sisters, Diane Holmes' Enrichment Class, and the Carmel High Dance Troupe.

If you would like to participate in any way in this special event, please call me at 659-3983.

Carmel Valley Historical Society meets weekly

THE CARMEL Valley Historical Society meets every Tuesday evening at 7:30 p.m. at Rosie's Cracker Barrel at the end of the village. Take a right off Carmel Valley road on Esquiline Road and cross the bridge.

The current projects are raising funds to buy the Bank of America building for the society's museum, and working with local decedents of the Rumsen and Esalen tribes to gather historical information.

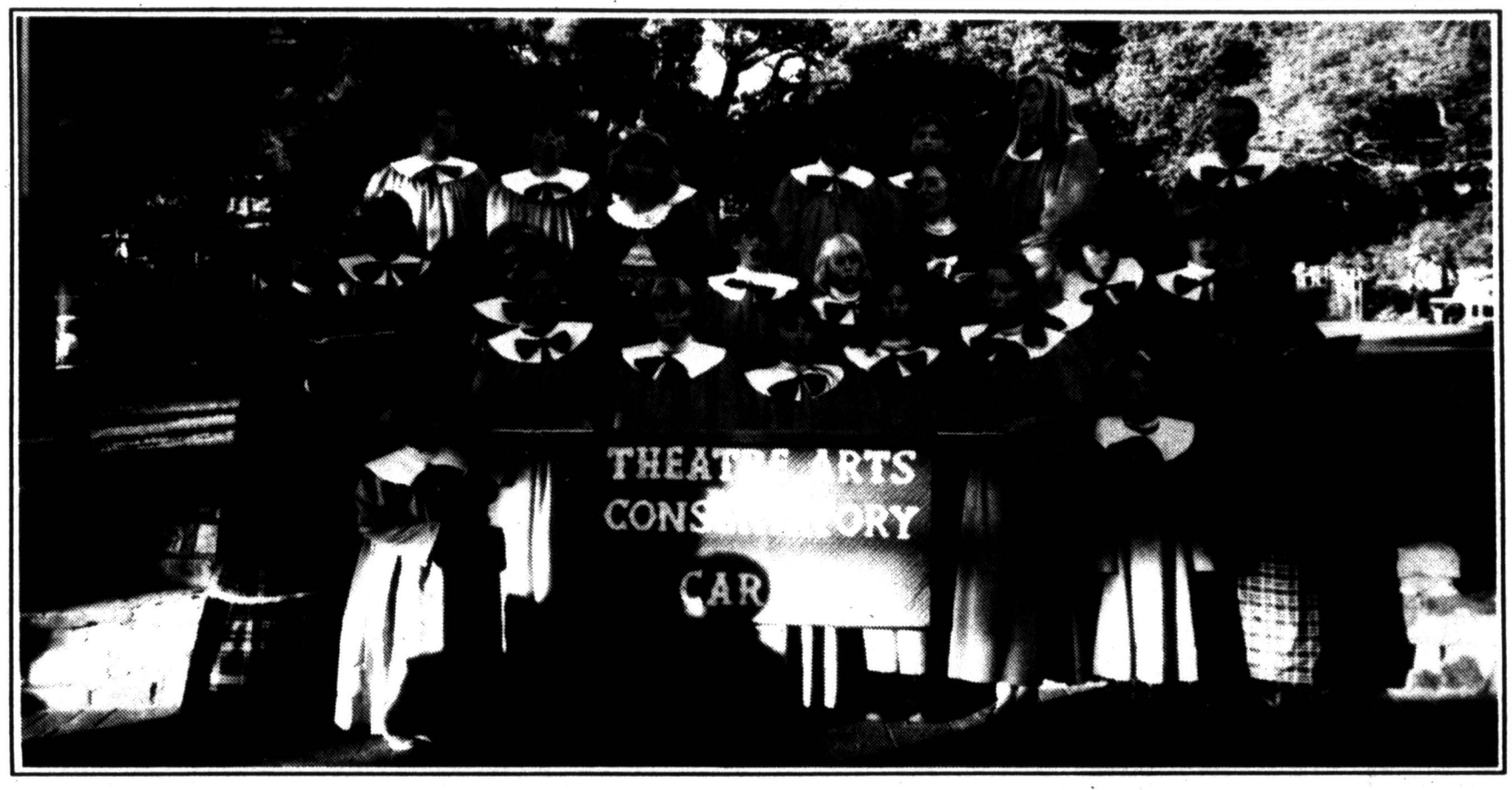
For more information call Stewart Clugh, chairman, at 659-2629.

Valley chamber shares holiday cheer

THE CARMEL Valley Chamber of Commerce invites its members and their guests to share an evening at Valley Lodge on Thursday, Dec. 12 at 6 p.m. The hosts for the gathering are Sherry and Peter Coakley.

President Vivian Miller and the board of directors wish all the members of the chamber a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New year.

They encourage everyone to make this a real Christmas feast by bringing a favorite hors d'oeuvres or dessert to share with friends. For more information about the evening call 659-4000.



Artists Christmas Fair

THE 11TH Annual Artists Christmas Fair will be held on Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 7-8 at the Valley Hills Shopping Center on Carmel Valley Road, two miles from Hwy 1.

There will by contemporary arts and crafts, pottery, tiles, stained glass, jewelry, toys, clothing, photography, food, and entertainment.

Saturday hours are from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

This reunion is a proud showcase of each artist's achievements over the past year, a rich harvest of cretivity, and a fine opportunity for the public to buy directly from the artist.

Gerrica Connolly, Cary Lowney, Peter McArthur, Jenifer Long, Alan and Julia Masaoka, Jack Dewitt, and Renee McClue are among the artists who will be represented at the fair. For more information call 625-6154 or 659-5280.

Housing Authority pleased with Pacific Meadows

THE HOUSING Authority of the County of Monterey celebrates the beginning of local seniors who are moving in to the Pacific Meadows Retirement Community in Carmel Valley.

According to Elsie Burton, Chair of the Board of Commissioners, the complexities of the planning process started when the land was generously donated to the Housing Authority in 1983 by Clint and Maggie Eastwood and James Garner.

Now that Pacific Meadows is open, the Housing Authority congratulates everyone involved in the cooperation of public and non-profit agencies and private groups who have produced an excellent result.

Many hours have been devoted to the project by the Housing Authority Board of Commissioners and Staff, the Monterey County Board of Supervisors, particularly Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser-Kauffman, and the County Staff, Jerry Warren of American Baptist Homes of the West (ABHOW) and staff, Ray Parks, architect and staff, Campbell Construction Co., and all those who worked on financing.

They have accomplished the impossible, affordable housing on the Monterey Peninsula. Although not, as in "Alice," were the impossible things accomplished before breakfast.

The Pacific Meadows site is leased by the Housing Authority to ABHOW. The balance of the acreage is to be deeded to the county by the Housing Authority for the County Parks Department to become part of Jacks Peak Park.

Tree Lighting Ceremony starts off the season

FOR MANY residents of Carmel Valley the holiday season begins with the traditional lighting of the 50 foot Christmas tree on Saddle Mountain.

This year the Tree Lighting Ceremony will be on Friday, Dec. 6 at 7 p.m. Along with this tradition started in 1963 by the Mid Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department is the station's Annual Open House at 8455 Carmel Valley Rd.

Usually the lights come on in conjunction with a party, and this year will be no exception.

Open house starts at 6 p.m. with egg nog, cookies, and Christmas songs. Everyone is invited to mingle around the fire house in the spirit of the holidays.

The official tree lighter will be George Crow. The volunteers selected him because of his long-time residency in Carmel Valley and his friendly and helpful nature, which he has shared among valley residents for many years.

Crow came to the Monterey Peninsula in 1920 with the 11th Cavalry from the Jefferson Barracks in Missouri. He worked on the construction crew that built many of the bridges on Hwy 1 to Big Sur. Moving to the valley in the early '40s, Crow became a well known and loved person.

If you are not sure who he is, he walks his dog, Fang, along Carmel Valley Road near the Valley Hills Nursery, like clock work, waving to anyone who honks or shouts, "Hi, George."

The Christmas tree is in great need of repair this year, and the Mid Carmel Valley volunteers will be making several trips to the tree to replace old wiring, pulleys and sockets and light bulbs, to ensure a bright display of holiday spirit this season.

The volunteers support this project through community donations to the Christmas Tree Fund and donations can be sent to the Mid Carmel Valley Fire Station, 8455 Carmel Valley Road, Carmel, CA 93923.

For more information call 625-2941.

Valley hiker's offered challenge

THE MONTEREY Peninsula Regional Park District will host a rigorous, moderately-paced seven mile hike to the top of the DeDampierre addition of Garland Park overlooking Carmel Valley Village.

The hike takes place on Saturday, Dec. 7 and begins at 9 a.m. at the small parking lot at the end of East Garzas Road off

Road in Carmel Valley. Hikers will return by 1 p.m. The hike is not for those with weak knees!

For more information call 659-4488.

New Moon . . .

THERE WILL be a New Moon in 13-degrees of Sagittarius on Dec. 5 at 7:56 p.m. Everyone's goals will be higher over the next month as we make new beginnings. There will be more travel, however, don't forget that Mercury (communication planet) will still be retrograde until Dec. 18, at 3:12 a.m. and armchair travel via the VCRs might be in order until then. Travel plans or education could be interrupted due to unforeseen circumstances.

Some of you may be thinking of taking up residence in foreign countries as Sagittarius rules foreign places. Expect December to be optimistic and cheerful, especially if you were born on Dec. 6, Aug. 6 or April 3. Sagittarius is ruled by the planet Jupiter, which rules expansion. It's a great time to formulate long-range programs for the future, but not to implement them until after Dec. 18. Expect communications/transactions with people from a distance . . . like Santa Claus coming down to Carmel from the North Pole. Many can expect to take care of legal actions or documents dealing with insurance matters. All can be brought to a head, although the actual court dates could experience delays, with that Mercury retrograde.

S.S.: (female) Carmel I have a job interview on Dec. 10.. How will I do and will I get the job? Born March 3, 1936.

C.H.: If you've been following my column, please take note of the Nov. 28 issue where I talked about Mercury retrograde. Your interview takes place on Dec. 10 and Mercury won't be in direct motion until after Dec. 18. The New Moon on Dec. 5 is in hard aspect to your Sun, Saturn in Pisces which means some sort of challenge to the structure of your daily life. Tensions may be brought to the surface. Are you a nurse? I see that you're a Pisces and they are usually caregivers.

This may not be the "right" job for you, but I do see better possibilities on Dec. 28, 29, 30, 31,when employment opportunities are MUCH BRIGHTER . . . and buy a lottery ticket, you might win! Good luck.

J.F.T.: (female) Carmel. I just moved to Carmel in June. Born Oct. 9, 1937.My son (Sept. 25, 1960) lives with me. He is manic depressive and takes lithium to control highs and lows. Unfortunately he cannot work and he cannot handle stress. My husband (Sept. 21, 1949) lives in San Francisco with his father. He does not like a small town such as Carmel. He does not want to live with me because of my son. Does it look as if I will ever live with my husband again? Will my son become independent enough so that he can live alone or with others? I am planning to go back into real estate next year as I enjoy the public and working. However, as the economy is not good, I don't know if this would be a good time for real estate? I would rather open a gift shop. Which do you think is better?

C.H.: My God, you really do have your hands full, don't you? Your husband needs to take part responsibility for your son, as you can't very well flush him down the toilet because of his imbalances.

I truly feel that since you're a Libra, you thought long and hard over this move to Carmel and I feel it was a positive step for you. You have a Sagittarius Moon and so have an optimistic nature, trusting in rainbows of hope for better things for tomorrow!

You have five planets in Earth signs; you're a stable and practical lady. Yet it was time to FREE yourself up from a difficult situation. Both your husband and son share a common bond. They are BOTH experiencing "anger" bordering on volcanic proportions and need to work through expressing it, via a therapy process.

There's something called "Sand Tray" therapy. It's a kind of play therapy, where the player is allowed to transform the anger on their "own" terms, rather than simply talk it out. At this point both your husband and son would AVOID a talk-type of confrontation. Your son seems to find himself in a "fight situation" for Pluto-Mars (very intense planets that are of a bulldozer action) is frustrated energy. His anger needs an outlet, a release in a safe environment.

Read Iron John by Robert Bly and get in touch with Carl Paul Alasko (373-5618), who conducts ongoing workshops/lectures for men, via support groups based on the book. I've been to Carl's lectures and believe in what he is trying to accomplish. He invites women to hear him speak, but mostly the audience is 95 percent men. A woman can learn a lot from his lectures. Most of us were not taught how to express anger in a healthy way and certainly our society hasn't allowed men to be vulnerable enough since eons ago.

Do you know how many people get angry, then drive off in their cars and it gets expressed through an accident? Solution: your son needs to express his anger/resentment that he feels and to communicate his feelings, not suppress them with drugs. Besides, with his Mars-Neptune, he is very, very sensitive to drugs, usually requiring only one-half the regular dosage of any medications. I also sense he has experienced some kind of abuse the past year. Do you know of any such instances?

His energy is blocked, plugged up and he becomes arrogant and overbearing with others and then demands to be catered to. He can be extremely vindictive if everything does not go his own way. Needless to say this is not the ideal time for him to have a relationship. There has to be transformation and change, but first there has to be RELEASE. His intensity is enormous, so the changes will be intense. Daily physical exercise would be very good for him, seven days a week over the next year. Intense workouts are best. Running, exercises that make sweat, are good to release adrenals.

I'd also like to see changes in his diet (by a nutritionist). Weak adrenal glands usually mean a deficiency of pantothenic acid which is needed to support the adrenals so that aldosterone can keep sodium in balance. Does he over-salt his food? How's his blood pressure? Low or high?

If there are constipation problems, I would strongly suggest colonics (to detoxify his colon) and we have a fine lady who is Certified to do this work in Mill Valley. She uses disposable equipment and came highly recommended to me by two prominent doctors in San Francisco. I have experienced her work, as I was diagnosed with colon cancer some years ago, and colonics saved my life. She is Nancy Gardner (415-383-7224).

Now, onto your husband. He has lived with loss and abandonment issues all his life, so your separation does not come as a surprise.

I feel the time period between Jan. 2 and Feb. 4 (1992) would NOT be a favorable time to try and work things out. His thinking will become more flexible by 1993 as some old thinking habits die a natural death and will free up some of those blocks, with the gentle help of a good therapist. He does, however, need your love and support, with no strings attached. A good friend, if you will.

As for whether or not you will get back together, I usually find that the answer is to be found in the question.

You're where you need to be right now, in order to heal and grow. Carmel has a zillion gift shops and I feel managing a Bed n' Breakfast might be more your style. See how you like it. As for real estate in Carmel, it will go through its most difficult time Jan. 2 through the 27 (1992) as a new 30-year cycle begins. One must be willing to experiment and try more unconventional methods (i.e., mortgages). What some may see as a crisis in real estate trends here is really evolution picking up speed. If we all "pull together" on the peninsula we're going to make it and be stronger for all our experiences. We can either "go with the flow," or resist, but of course what we resist, persists.

A.P.: (female) Carmel. With only two MAJOR relationships in my life, why do I pick the same type of men? Born April 16, 1929.

C.H.: You're an Aries and your Venus is in Taurus. You find it difficult to "let go" of those two relationships, and right now Saturn (discipline planet) is trying to teach you to "let go" of those old, stale memories. Both relationships have long since fulfilled their purpose. After Dec. 13 you will feel considerable pressure moving off your Venus. You're a caregiver par excellence and attract the men with broken wings, who need to be saved or rescued in some way (read some of John Bradshaw's work — I met him at Anderle's about a week ago.) Great man. He and Leos Anderle (owner) were engrossed in heavy conversation about caregiving, its pitfalls and black holes if one is not careful. You sacrifice (Neptune) your needs and attend to your men because Aries has this JOAN OF ARC reputation. I see a nice, loving, caring, gentle and supportive man coming your way between Jan. 11 and 14 (1992) and also between June 16 thru 19 (1992).

You've just come through a year of much confusion in relationships (the broken wing variety) and another year

The Charles Ford Co., Inc., parent company of California regional department stores Ford's and Rileys, has lowered the interest rate on its charge accounts to 14.8 percent.

The change, which takes effect immediately, is a 25 percent reduction from its previous 19.8 percent rate. According to President and CEO James Vicars:

"Our decision reflects both the drarnatic decline in overall interest rates and an acknowledgement of the difficult times consumers face in today's sluggish economy. It comes from our guiding philosophy of serving our customers and being responsive to their needs."

Commenting about the recent furor over the briefly proposed interest cap on credit cards, Vicars continued, "We wanted to take the lead in addressing consumers' justifiable concerns about the cost of credit. At Ford's and Rileys, we view the extension of credit to our customers as a service, not a profit center."

The Charles Ford Co., Inc. is accustomed to taking the lead-just as it did in 1852 when it opened California's first department store. That store, located in the Central California community of Watsonville, and its parent company are true survivors. A victim of the Loma Prieta earthquake of 1989, that first store recently celebrated its grand re-opening. Rising from the rubble, the new store is a showplace standing in the footprint of its own history. It is a symbol of Watsonville's stubborn resilience and victory over the devastating forces of nature. It is also symbolic of the company's commitment and steadfast belief in the vitality of its community.

Over its 139-year history, the company has grown to 10 stores that operate under two divisions. In addition to its Watsonville store, the Ford's Department Store division has stores located in Hollister, Morgan Hill, Pacific Grove, Salinas and Half Moon Bay. The company's Rileys Department Stores are located in San Luis Obispo, Arroyo Grande, Atascadero and Morro Bay.

Business at California's hotels and motels picked up statewide in August, the first positive results this summer. Occupancy was also up in August 1991 compared to August 1990, according to figures published in the October edition of the California Hotel & Motel Association's "California Tourism Barometer." Average daily room rate also increased slightly.

California's occupancy rate was up 0.7 percent to 76.4 percent in August compared to August a year ago. The statewide occupancy increase was the first since October 1990. Demand for rooms rose 3.5 percent, outpacing the increase in supply of rooms of 2.8 percent. However, year-to-date room supply growth remained unchanged from April 1991, rising 3.0 percent. ADR across California inched up 0.3 percent, or $.18, to $68.30, bringing year-to-date ADR figures even with the same period last year.

Occupancy rates in the Golden State's three major metropolitan areas at the end of August were varied. The San Francisco area reported an 0.8 percent occupancy increase to 84.0 percent, the first occupancy gain since January. Demand for rooms grew faster than room supply, up 4.4 percent compared to 3.6 percent. ADR edged up 0.5 percent to $84.63, the second highest statewide.

At 80.4 percent, occupancy in the San Diego area rose 2.6 percent. Rising 6.0 percent, the increase in demand for rooms overshadowed the growth in new rooms on the market, which rose 3.4 percent. ADR slipped 0.9 percent, dropping to $77.25, resulting in no change from the July 1991 year-to-date ADR decline of 1.0 percent.

In the Los Angeles-Long Beach area, occupancy fell 0.3 percent, down to 73.7 percent. A positive note on an otherwise bleak situation, the August occupancy decline was the smallest in 17 straight months of occupancy losses. The 2.8 percent growth in room supply edged out the 2.5 percent rise in demand for rooms. ADR posted its first gain since November 1990, climbing 2.4 percent to $69.76.

This issue of the California Tourism Barometer has a sample size of 1,148 properties, representing 191,024 guest rooms.

The California Hotel & Motel Association is a statewide, Sacramento-based nonprofit organization dedicated to promoting the economic, employment and cultural benefits of the state's 25.4 billion dollar hotel and motel industry. The largest state hotel and motel association in the nation, CH&MA, has over 1,600 members, representing more than 170,000 guest rooms, and is comprised of California's leading hotels, motels, resorts, bed and breakfasts, guest ranches and allied industries.

Value. It's the buzzword of the '90s. Consumers faced with the realities of the current economic environment have entered this decade with a new sense of value consciousness. For those who hope to continue purchasing quality, designer fashions and brand-name merchandise, outlet malls are offering the perfect combination of "department store" brands and greatly reduced prices (20 to 70 percent below normal retail prices).

The concept is simple; the manufacturer sells his overruns and samples directly to the public in an outlet store. By cutting out the "middleman," savvy shoppers are treated to a broad selection of the manufacturer's product line at substantial savings. The selection is primarily current season, first-quality merchandise (a surprise to new outlet shoppers who assume that the merchandise must be last year's styles and/or irregulars). Most outlet stores bear no resemblance to the back-door warehouses and pipe-rack fixtured stores of yesterday. Today, outlet stores have pleasant decors, offer good customer service and most accept major credit cards.

Shoppers can find outlet stores from virtually every leading manufacturer in most product categories. The American Tin Cannery Outlet Center, located at 125 Ocean View Blvd., in Pacific Grove — across from the aquarium, was the first outlet in California (it opened in May, 1988).

The center currently has over 40 outlet stores from some of the best names in fashion, sportswear, housewares and more. The newest addition can be found in the popular Mattel Outlet where the store has set up a separate department featuring Barbie products. The center also has a wide range of restaurants and eateries, including the popular Accents Restaurant, which features an ocean view. This indoor mall has become one of the main attractions in the area.

This year, holiday shoppers are spending more time to seek out value. Concerned with reduced gift-giving budgets, the shopper's objective is to get more for their money. While outlet centers take longer distances to reach (most are more than 30 miles from major cities), the added savings appear to be worth the added miles.

"The response to the center has been tremendous. Holiday shoppers are especially pleased to discover that they can purchase virtually all their gifts in one place. Some shoppers who are spending less than last year are finding that they don't have to cut back on their gift-giving. Those who are able to spend the same as a year ago are thrilled to be able to actually give more than before," remarked Jan Hanson, manager of the center.

Many of the manufacturers at the American Tin Cannery will not allow their names to be revealed outside the center itself. So word-of-mouth has become an important part of the centers success. "People who know the places that provide exceptional value are enjoying sharing this great secret with their friends. It used to be that women didn't reveal their bargain hunting secrets. Today, it's something to brag about," noted Michele Rothstein, vice president of marketing for the center.

The American Tin Cannery is open daily; Monday through Wednesday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Thursday and Friday 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Saturday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Sunday 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. The center is open until 5 p.m. on Christmas eve. For information, call 372-1442.

Grin and bear it

BAXTER BEAR and Pierre Bear are the two furriest members of Julie Foudy's and Beth Jauregui's Kindergarten classes at the River School in Carmel. Every night a child from each of their classrooms takes home the class bear. Along with the bear goes a journal. The child dictates and writes a story about his or her adventure with the bear and returns it the next day to share with the classmates. Baxter and Pierre are embarking on a fabulous fantasy European vacation. They have packed their backpacks, received their shots, and even had passports and pictures taken. The children are bidding them a found farewell as they are buckled in and driven to the airport. During the month of December, the bears will visit England, Holland, Germany, Switzerland, and France. As the bears travel around the countries, the children back in the classrooms will be studying about the arts, culture, food, people, customs, and geography of each country.

For additional information call 647-1583.

CAN WE SMELL OUR WAY TO WELLNESS?

Just as our sense of smell protects us from harmful conditions such as rotting garbage or the impending disaster of a building on fire; it also pleasantly soothes us and can send us down memory lane to the security of mom's kitchen on a chilly afternoon.

In these stress-filled days of air pollution and artificial flavors, our senses become dulled. This can adversly affect our health and our feeling of well-being.

Aromatherapy with the use of pure essences of plants and flowers, is designed to retrain the senses, recreating a balance in the system in a gentle, non-intrusive way.

To learn more about aromatherapy, plan to attend an Introduction to Aromatherapy, given by authority Raymond Blaylock, on Friday., Dec. 6, 7 to 9 p.m., at the Carmel Valley Inn. For information call: 375-7071.

BLIND & VISUALLY IMPAIRED CENTER ANNUAL FUNDRAISER

The Annual Fundraiser, A Christmas Country Store and Auction will be held Sunday, Dec. 8 at the Monterey Conference Center, 1 Portola Plaza, Room Serra I from Noon to 5 p.m. A $3 admission donation will be charged at the door.

Handcrafted items, baked goods, a large drawing and a silent auction will be offered. All items are donated by local merchants. There will be continuous entertainment featuring pianist Jonathon Lee and Clarence the Clown, a magician and comedian. Free wine and hors d'oeuvres will be served throughout the day.

The entire proceeds will support the Blind & Visually Impaired Center their administration and activities for the coming year. For more information call 649-3505 between 8 a.m. and Noon, Monday through Friday.

BRIDGE CLUB RESULTS OF NOV. 27

Extra masterpoints from the American Contract Bridge League were awarded to the winning pairs on Nov. 27 at Carmel Bridge Club's Club Championship held at Parish Hall.

Highest awards went to Ted Holt and Betty Jackson who had the highest score of all the pairs. Second place, overall, was tied by Mary Lou Bernhardt and Shirley Tuomela, and Chan Smith with partner Irma Stanley; fourth place was won by Cathy Lee and Sue Monroe. Section winners included Bob Bendig and Delia Guildford, and Lois Ebert and Toni Mahon.

Carmel Bridge Club's next game will also award extra points at their annual membership game. All bridge players are invited to attend their weekly Wednesday afternoon games. Call 625-4307 for information.

'BIG BUDDY" ORIENTATION DEC. 10

The Buddy Program of the Monterey Peninsula, an agency that matches adult companions with children from single parent families will hold its monthly orientation on Tuesday, Dec. 10 from 7-9 p.m. at Mariposa Hall, 801 Lighthouse Ave. in New Monterey (Between Kinko's and Kentucky Fried Chicken), and every second Tuesday of each month thereafter. This is an opportunity for those interested in volunteering with the Buddy Program to learn more about the roles, responsibilities, and rewards of being a "Big Buddy." 655-9231.

REALTORS' CANDY CANES—YULE JOY FOR SENIOR, BATTERED WOMEN

Eleven local banks have joined the Carmel Board of Realtors to sponsor the 1991 Christmas Candy Cane Project, one of the most popular Christmas benefits staged yearly in the Carmel area. Now in its tenth year, the Candy Cane Project is a drive to obtain donations of inexpensive Christmas gifts to brighten the holiday for those for whom it would otherwise be a bleak day. Those who benefit from the drive are senior citizens belonging to the Carmel foundation, and the YWCA's Emergency Shelter for battered women and their children. The chairperson of the drive is Realtor Susan Silver. "Here's how it works," Silver says. "We place gaily decorated baskets of peppermint candy canes in the lobbies of the eleven banks, next to the Christmas trees. Each cane bears a tag suggesting a present to buy, costing under $5. "We ask the bank customer to buy and wrap the present, and bring it to the bank to be placed under the tree. Just before Christmas, we gather up all the presents and give them the to YWCA and the Carmel Foundation."

This year's drive opens the first week of December and ends on Friday, Dec. 20. The participating banks are: Security Pacific Bank, Carmel; Pacific Western Bank, Carmel; Great Western Bank, Carmel and Carmel Rancho; Coast Federal Bank, Carmel, Pebble Beach, Carmel Valley; First Interstate Bank, Carmel and Carmel Rancho; Wells Fargo, Carmel Rancho; and First National Bank, Carmel Rancho. Last year, the Carmel Foundation had nearly 100 seniors as guests for its annual Christmas dinner, and Santa had gifts such as coffee mugs, household items, stationery, jams and jellies, to distribute to everyone. A similar number of presents went to the YWCA for its Shelter. Often, women and children must flee their homes on a moment's notice, taking nothing with them. Thus, presents such as cosmetics, toilet articles, and toys are gratefully received, particularly at Christmas time. "This is Carmel's very own project," Silver says, "and once again it will brighten what might otherwise be a dreary Christmas for some of our neighbors."

GERMANS FROM RUSSIA WILL HOLD CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Central Coast Chapter of the American Historical Society of Germans from Russia will hold its Christmas party on Saturday, Dec. 7, in the International Language and Cultural Center (the former officer's club), located at the Presidio of Monterey. Refreshments as well as instruction on German and Russian folk dances will be available. All members and those interested in the heritage of the German-Russians are cordially invited. A special invitation is extended to students of the German and Russian languages at DLI. For further information and for directions contact either 373-4603 or 384-6659.

FESTIVAL OF TREES OPENS DEC. 5

The Festival of Trees, sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, and held at the Monterey Fairgrounds from Thursday, Dec. 5 through Sunday, Dec. 8, offers a variety of activities; the focal point being the 20 fabulous trees decorated by the volunteers of the museum. The theme, illustrated with Gus Arriola's colorful poster, is "Christmas Fiesta," and the wide-ranging entertainment reflects this idea. From the appearance of El Teatro Campesino, the Monterey High Mariachi Band, Defense Language Institute Russian Chorus, Robert Louis Stevenson School's dancing group, and William Faulkner to book signings by Gus Arriola, Hank Ketcham and Cole Weston, this annual event promises something for everyone. In addition, Mary Craft, Shirley Holt and Randy Reinstadt will be autographing children's books. Hours are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday through Saturday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday with an auction of miniatures that day at 2 p.m. Cost is $4 for adults and 50 cents for children 12 and under accompanied by an adult. Television station KSMS, and radio stations KCTY and Radio Pacific (formerly KXDC) are co-sponsors of "Christmas Fiesta." For more information, call 372-5477.

Association of Monterey Bay and the Associated Students of Monterey Peninsula College will be honoring more than 20 Human Rights-related community and campus organizations with a luncheon program at the MPC cafeteria on Saturday, Dec. 7. These organizations will each be honored for their work with such subjects as problems of the disabled and problems with crime, drugs, violence, persecution, racism, poverty, and civil rights.

John Von Berg, president of the local UNA chapter, states that the problems addressed by these groups are also being dealt with on a worldwide scale by agencies of the United Nations. "It is about time that local groups such as these be recognized for the sacrifices and contribution in the field of human rights!"

The 12th annual Baha'i Human Rights Day Award will be presented to Jean Hontalas who has performed significant service in the field of health care.

The program will also include performance by the Filipino-American dancers, the MPC Black American Drama Club and a musical performance by TRIO AMISTAD.

The luncheon program will begin at 11:30 a.m. and tickets for the box lunch and program will be $6. Checks may be sent to UNA-USA, 3270 Rio Rd., Carmel, 93923.

RED CROSS BALL INVITATIONS DUE DEC. 10

The second annual Red Cross Ball, "A Royal Night in Vienna," promises an evening of music and dance of turn-of-the-century Vienna, Saturday, Dec. 14, beginning with a reception at 7 p.m. and dinner at 8 p.m., in the grand ballroom of the Old Hotel Del Monte at the Naval Postgraduate School. Free valet parking will be available.

The Monterey Brass Quintet will provide background Christmas music until dinner, then Pauline Thomas will play Viennese music at the piano throughout dinner. At 9:30, Maestro Haymo Taeuber, will conduct the Monterey Bay Chamber Orchestra who will play Viennese waltzes, polkas, and music from light opera.with soprano Norma Jean Hodges.

At 10 p.m., the Walter White dancers will join the orchestra in choreographed waltzes and polkas. Ballroom dancing—mostly waltzes and polkas—will follow. The evening will conclude as the guests join in singing "Edelweis" from "Sound of Music."

Call 373-8450 before Dec. 10 to request an invitation to the black-tie event that, at $125 a couple, will benefit both Monterey County Chapter of the American Red Cross and Monterey Bay Symphony.

SPCA ANNUAL OPEN HOUSE /SALE SET FOR DEC. 7

Those who are familiar with the SPCA Benefit Shop on Forest Avenue in Pacific Grove will be amazed when the doors open on Saturday morning, Dec. 7 at 9:30 for the Annual Christmas Open House and Holiday Sale.

The staff of 13 volunteers and a manager are all devoted, hard working individuals whose ages range from 19 to the early eighties. Most are retired; however, three are employed and/or students, one is a busy realtor with a family. Each donates a day, doing anything they can to help alleviate suffering of animals.

For 12 months these volunteers have been cleaning, repairing and stockpiling items. As large donations arrive, there is concern because of the already packed space about where they can be stored. When a box arrives with contents that are clean and whole it is a time for rejoicing, because volunteers know that their hard work in 1990 raised $75,000 for the shelter.

The Christmas open house is a way to thank the public that has been so generous and to raise thousands of dollars in two days. A restored Victorian doll house will be offered this year, hundreds of pieces of excellent jewelry, perfume, books, antiques, designer clothing, shoes and accessories and gift items for the entire family.

TAVERNETTI TURKEY TROT DRAWING TO BENEFIT THE AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY

For a donation of $5 or more you can participate in the Tavernetti Turkey Trot drawing to benefit the American Cancer Society Patient Care of Monterey County. Prizes include: one week in Maui (including air), 2 nights in San Francisco, $500 United Air Fare, AT&T Pro Am passes, limosine service, and much more. The drawing will be held in conjunction with the American Cancer Society's Christmas Tree Lighting Ceremony on Dec. 5, at the Highlands Inn, Carmel from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Participants need not be present to win. A donation of 5 tickets for $25 entitles participants to a turkey at no extra cost, which can be picked up at Nielsen's Meat Dept. in Carmel or Fairway Mart in Salinas, from Nov. 1 to Dec. 31. For more information contact Marion Tavernetti at 624-4059.

THE AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY HOLDS TREE LIGHTING CEREMONY AT FOUR LOCATIONS

The American Cancer Society's "Love Lights a Tree" ceremony will be held at four sites throughout Monterey County.

The holiday season officially began with a tree lighting ceremony Nov. 29, at Del Monte Shopping Center in Monterey.

On Dec. 5, the ceremony will be held during a joint American Cancer Society and Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce mixer from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Highlands Inn in Carmel.

Dick Bruhns and M'Lady Bruhns stores will feature a tree lighting ceremony on Dec. 6, from 6 to 8 p.m. in Carmel, and on Dec. 10, from 6 to 8 p.m. in Salinas.

Sponsored each year by the Monterey-San Benito unit of the American Cancer Society and KMST-TV 46, the "Love Lights a Tree" fund-raiser provides individuals and businesses the opportunity to remember or honor someone special through a donation to the American Cancer Society. All gifts will be acknowledged by special cards to the honoree or family as well as the donor.

For additional information on donations or the ceremony, contact Pat Sandstrum, development director, at 372-4521.

A WORLD WITHOUT LENINISM TO BE PRESENTED AT WORLD AFFAIRS COUNCIL

A mapping out of new directions in foreign policy from the perspective of a world without Leninism will be the topic of a presentation by Dr. Kenneth Jowitt at the World Affairs Council reception and lecture on Tuesday, December 10, 1991.

Dr. Jowitt, professor of Political Science, University of California-Berkeley, possesses a national reputation for his innovative approach and originality in the field of international relations. His area of expertise is Soviet and East European politics.

Among his numerous awards is Distinguished Teacher Award at UC-Berkeley. In 1984 he was selected as a delegate to the Romanian-American cultural exchange talks at Sterling Forest, New York. His publications include the Leninist Response to National Dependency, RevolutionaY Breakthrouqh and National Development: The Case of Romania, and his latest book to be released in January 1992, New World Disorder: The Leninist Extinction.

The World Affairs lecture will be at 7 p.m .on Tuesday, Dec. 10 and will be preceeded by hors d'oeuvres and wine at 6 p.m. This program will be held at the International Language and Cultural Center at the Defense Language Institute (the old Officers' Club building) in Monterey. The program will be open to members and non-members. For reservations phone Maria Wilhelm at 625-0208.

PG COUNCILWOMAN TO ADDRESS LEAGUE

Susan Whitman will be the featured guest speaker at the December general meeting of the League of Women Voters of the Monterey Peninsula. Whitman is a Pacific Grove City Council member, president of the Monterey Bay Division of the League of California Cities, and a recognized advocate for affordable housing. Always an informed, enthusiastic speaker, she will address concerns on economic issues and government costs involved in supporting a growing population. The meeting will be held at noon at the Unitarian Church, 490 Aguajito Road, Carmel. Cost of the luncheon is $5 and the public is welcome. For more information, please contact Ileene Crane-Franks at 659-2216 or 659-5623, or The League office at 649-VOTE.

DR. DONALD SCANLON NAMED '91 LAUREATE BY PHYSICIAN'S GROUP

Dr. Donald Scanlon, medical director of cardiopulmonary services at Community Hospital, has been given the 1991 Laureate of the Year award by the Northern California region of the American College of Physicians.

The organization grants the award each year to one physician who has demonstrated devotion to excellence in medicine.

The American College of Physicians, the second largest physicians group in the U.S., consists of internal medicine specialists. The Northern California region extends from the Oregon border to Fresno.

Scanlon was recognized for his work as Community Hospital's director of medical education. The medical education program helps physicians keep up-to-date in their specialities. Local, national, and occasionally international speakers have come to the Peninsula to speak as part of the program.

Scanlon graduated from Stanford University School of Medicine and did his internship and residency at San Francisco General Hospital. He is a clinical associate professor of medicine at Stanford and is also the hospital's director of employee health.

Scanlon has been very active in medical and community affairs, having served on the Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History Association, the Cypress Foundation Board of Directors, the California Medical Association, and the American College of Physicians.

Carmel photographic artist Kenneth Gregg recently was chosen to serve on the board of trustees of the Center for Photographic Arts, Sunset Center, Carmel. The Center is an educational organization that promotes photography as an art form and sponsors photographic art exhibits. Gregg begins his new duties next month.

Kenneth Gregg was reared in Santa Barbara and was introduced to photography at the age of ten, when his father gave him an old box camera. Photography became his life's passion.

He attended the University of California at Berkeley and later combined his love for the outdoors with photography by working for a number of years with The Northface Backpacking Equipment Company as their catalog photographer. The essential spirit of the landscapes that he visited during this period formed the expressive foundation for all of his subsequent work.

This past summer Gregg was commissioned by the now-underconstruction Hyatt Regency Hotel in Rossy, Paris for three prints of his "People of the Stone" series to be placed in each of the hotel's 390 rooms, and three originals of the same series for the hotel's lobby.

Retired from commercial photography, Gregg moved to the Monterey Peninsula, where his work is much in demand. His most recent exhibits were at the Monterey Museum of Art and the Center for Photographic Arts. His photographs are in private collections throughout the United States.

Kenneth Gregg is represented by Nancy Hirsch Art Consultant, Carmel Valley.

FORT ORD TASK FORCE MEETS DEC. 6

The Fort Ord Community Task Force will hold another in a series of public meetings on Friday, Dec. 6, in Monterey, according to Rep. Leon E. Panetta (D-Monterey).

The meeting will be held in the Pacific Room of the Hyatt Regency on One Old Golf Course Road. It will begin at 3 p.m.

The task force, made up of area mayors and other local officials, and its seven advisory groups are working on a consensus strategy for the future to address the economic and other problems created by the closing of Fort Ord.

Panetta said that among the items on the meeting agenda will be a presentation by San Jose State University officials on their plans to apply for use of Fort Ord property for a state university campus.

POLICE TO HONOR AWARENESS WEEK

On the state level, they're being called "impaired drivers." And they kill people.

In a symbolic observance of problems caused by these impaired drivers over the holidays, on-duty officers of Carmel Police Department will keep their vehicle headlights aglow Monday as part of a concerted effort by law enforcement agencies throughout California.

This headlight observance marks the first weekday of National Drunk and Drugged Driving Awareness Week (3-D Week) Dec. 7-13. The campaign is sponsored by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. Carmel's headlight observance coincides with a similar statewide observance by California Highway Patrol and other local law enforcement officers.

"The holiday season is a time of particular concern for law enforcement," said Carmel Police Chief Jack McGilvray. "Crashes caused by impaired drivers are always a problem. This special one-day headlight observance is a way we can help focus attention on the problem."

Obituaries

Jack Currier

Jack Currier, former co-owner of the Rocky Point Restaurant on the Big Sur coast, died at his home in Carmel on Saturday, Nov. 9. He was 73.

Born in Oakland on July 2, 1918, he co-owned and operated the widely-known restaurant for 24 years before retiring in 1981.

He was formerly commodore of the Stillwater Yacht Club, a member of the Beach and Tennis Club in Pebble Beach, a director of Friends of Hospice and a member of St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church.

He is survived by his wife, Nancy; a son, Chris of Monterey; two stepsons, John Hall of Chicago and David Hall of Sandston, Va.; three daughters, Susan Giem of Salinas and Sandra Lewis and Robin Currier, both of Monterey; a stepdaughter, Perky D'Ambrosio of Carmel; a brother, Charles of Lafayette; a sister, Barbara Davenport of Napa, and eight-grandchildren.

memorial services will be held at 11 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 14, at St. Dunstan's. After cremation, Currier's ashes will be scattered from his sailboat Stardust. The Paul Mortuary is in charge of arrangements.

The family has asked that any memorial contributions be sent to the Hospice of the Central Coast, P. O. Box 2480, Monterey, 93940.

Edith A. Rivett

Edith Azalene Rivett of Carmel, a retired bookkeeper, died Sunday, Dec. 1, at Carmel Convalescent Hospital. She was 104.

Born Oct. 21, 1887, in Sacramento County, she had worked as a bookkeeper for 60 years for the H.W. Rivett Co. in Sacramento, a floor-covering firm founded in 1884 by her father, Harry W. Rivett. She moved from Sacramento to Carmel 44 years ago. Prior to her death, she was the oldest living graduate of Sacramento High School.

She is survived by a sister, Dorothy Rivett Miller of Medford, Ore., two nephews, a niece, and several grandnieces and grandnephews.

Memorial services will be held Friday at 11 a.m. at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea in Pacific Grove. Cremation will take place at the chapel under the direction of The Paul Mortuary.

Troy Lansaw

In loving memory of Troy Lansaw who passed away Sunday, Nov. 10 at his home in Atlanta, Ga. He was 29.

Born in Panama City, Fla. on May 6, 1961 and raised in Missouri, Troy lived on the Monterey Peninsula and wished tributes to his life be made to the Monterey County AIDS project.

A memorial to this cherished friend may is being planned. For date and time, call 625-1599 or 525-1970.

Lewis Menhinick

Lewis L. Menhinick of Pebble Beach, who served in various advertising and managerial positions with The Los Angeles Times for 39 years before his retirement in 1969, died Sunday, Dec. 1, at the Hospice of the Central Coast. He was 87.

Menhinick, who was known as Lake, was born Aug. 27, 1904, in Brooklyn, N.Y. He had been a resident of Pebble Beach for 22 years. He attended schools in Brooklyn and Long Island, including Erasmus Hall and Laurence High School.

He majored in business and finance at New York University and later studied marketing, merchandising and graphic arts at Pasadena College. After working in investment in New York and Los Angeles, he joined The Los Angeles Times in 1930.

He served in many capacities before his appointment as retail advertising manager, a post he held for more than 20 years. He inaugurated and directed development of the suburban sections of The Times and served briefly as assistant display advertising director. He later directed the opening of The Times' first satellite plant in Costa Mesa.

Menhinick served in the U.S. Coast Guard's port security force for three years. He was a member of the Jonathan Club, Balboa Bay Club, Hacienda Golf Club, Irvine Country Club and Monterey Peninsula Country Club. He was also active in the Los Angeles Boys Club and the United Way.

Survivors include his wife, Barbara; two stepdaughters, Dianne Bohlman of Carmel Valley and Gloria Hayes of Darien, Cohn.; and five stepgrandchildren. A memorial Mass will be celebrated Thursday at 11 a.m. at Carmel Mission Basilica. Cremation will be at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea. The Paul Mortuary is in charge of arrangements. The family suggests that any memorial contributions be sent to the Hospice of the Central Coast, to Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula or to the donor's favorite charity.

Charles Clauser

Charles Clifford Clauser of Carmel, died Saturday, Nov. 30 of pneumonia. He was 85.

Born March 26, 1906 in Denver, Colo., he had lived on the Monterey Peninsula for 22 years, the last 16 years in Carmel. Clauser worked for 15 years in the petroleum industry in the southwestern United States and Central and South America, and for 20 years in the home building and real estate business in Idaho and New Mexico.

A raconteur, amateur geologist, naturalist and adventurer, he had an enduring interest in geology, wildlife and archeology.

He is survived by a close friend, Laureen Reed of Carmel; a daughter, Carol Burke of Tujunga; a son, Stephen Clauser of Glendale; a granddaughter; and a niece and a nephew.

No services will be held. Private cremation will take place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea, Pacific Grove, under the direction of the Paul Mortuary. The family suggests that any memorial contributions be sent to the National Wildlife Federation.

Father Farrell's Wisdom

Share your joy

C.S. Lewis, the Anglican spiritual writer, said: "Joy is the serious business of heaven." However as we prepare for Christmas the church tells us that joy is also the serious business of earth. "Gaudate domino iterum dico gaudate. Rejoice in the Lord always, again I say rejoice." As we look at the world we see wars, pestilence, famine, inflation and unemployment. We say: 'What are these religious pollyanas asking of us?" However there is joy that transcends world events, personal problems and family tragedies.

It can not be bought nor does it come from Christmas celebrating. But rather it is something we find in bringing it to others. It comes from sharing, from all the generous and thoughtful acts we do to make the lives of others happier and more full of love.

Mark Twain said, "Grief can take care of itself. To get full a value out of py we have to have someone to share it with."

Oh Lord, spare us from ever becoming a "gloomy Gus" for that means we are unable to cope with the present nor hope for the future. When we grab thy fatherly hand we can walk with joy anywhere and always. Oh Lord, help us to do just that this Christmas and throughout the year.

Photos of 75th party on display

More than one hundred candid color photographs taken at the 75th anniversary celebration of the Incorporation of Carmel-by-theSea, held at Sunset Center this past Oct. 5, are currently on display at the Post Office on Fifth Avenue in Carmel. Longtime Carmelites and newer residents are seen mingling and enjoying the anniversary barbecue. Photos are numbered, and the 75th Anniversary Committee has arranged a discounted price at Carmel Camera Center for those who wish to purchase copies. This informal exhibition will be on view through the end of December.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

Many aging people could lead safer, more convenient lives if they made a few changes in their homes. A survey of 1,500 elderly found that more than on out of three hadn't thought about even minor changes that can compensate for reduced vision or dexterity. Some small improvements can pay big dividends, like replacing round doorknobs with levers and installing brighter lighting, handrails on both sides of stairways, and a bathroom grab bar. Many suggestions are found in the publication, "Home Modifications for the Elderly," produced by the Research Center of the National Association of Home Builders, 400 Prince George's Boulevard, Upper Marlboro, MD 20772.

For Lois Blackmun, of San Jose, California, writing letters to soldiers in Operation Desert Strom was a familiar experience. She started the practice of writing cheery letters to U.S. Servicemen in World War I when she was 16, and resumed in World War II, and the Korean and Vietnam wars. After writing 101 letters to troops in the Saudi desert, she corresponded with 45 who responded. Along with each initial letter she sent a crossword puzzle anda pressed leaf. One soldier wrote back that it had been 81 days since he had seen a leaf.

Salvation Army needs bell-ringers

The annual Salvation Army Red Kettle collection began Nov. 29 but volunteers are still needed to ring bells by the kettles in area shopping centers.

By working two-hour shifts, couples, or pairs from the game work place can make a real difference in our community. Collections made during one shift will provide holiday dinners for the needy, or help for the homeless.

This is the 100th anniversary of the Red Kettle operation, which began in San Francisco in 1891 and has become a world-wide annual holiday event. The ringing of bells in our shopping centers has become a real part of the holiday spirit, symbolizing the feeling of charity in everyone this time of year.

Ringing a hell for a two hour shift is one way to make a change in our community - to make a difference. A call to the Salvation Army, asking about bell-ringing is the first step in making that difference. The number is 899-4911.

Is brotherhood out of style?

Your children are invited to learn what the Bible teaches about the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man in the Christian Science Sunday School.

Old Carmel Memorabilia Auction features momentos from Carmel's colorful past

THE OLD Carmel Memorabilia Auction, a new fund-raiser for the GroveMont Theater, has announced it's 1991 date and location. The event has been scheduled for Wednesday, Dec. 11, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., at the La Playa Hotel, corner of Camino Real and Eighth Avenue in Carmel.The auction will feature momentos from Carmel's colorful artistic past, including several Jo Mora maps, a Leontyne Price autograph, historic arts posters and programs that predate Carmel as a city, original Cymbals and Carmel Pine Cones, Carmel Annuals, and many other collector's pieces. A total of 45 items will be auctioned in both silent and live sessions.

GroveMont programs that will benefit from the event are the Carmel Shake-speare Festival, the Monterey Bay TheatreFest, the Monterey Playhouse and the Actors Performance Ensemble (APE), which sends its popular Fairy Tale Theater troupe to the Forest Theater each year.

The requested donation to attend auction is $15. Tickets are available at the GroveMont Theater Arts Center, the Monterey Playhouse and the Theater Alliance Box-Office. Tickets by mail are available at P.O. Box 222035, Carmel, CA., 93922. Phone reservations are available at 655-3200. Auction Item list is available by phoning 649-0340.

*The GroveMont Theater is a non-profit California 501(c)3 organization. Donations are tax-deductible.

Mozart's lesser-known works featured in Kazuko Hara recital

THE CARL Cherry Foundation will present soprano Kazuko Hara in a special concert of vocal music commemorating the anniversary of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart's death at the Church of Religious Science on Thursday, Dec. 5 at 8 p.m.

The recital will include pieces from some of Mozart's lesser-known works, such as the serenate Alscanio in Alba and the Oratorio Die Schuldkett. The program will also include the Abendempfindung and arias from the most popular operas, such as The Marriage of Figaro, Don Giovanni and The Magic Flute.

Also unique to Mozart was his ability to write music in five languages, and Hara will sing examples in each, including the only piece he wrote in English, composed in 1765 during his only visit to England. Hara found the piece in the British Museum and had a copy of the original sent to her. The program will be performed in chronological order to follow the development of his music from 1765 to his death on Dec. 5, 1791.

SOPRANO KAZUKO Hara will commemorate the anniversary of Mozart's death with a recital Dec. 5 at the Church of Religious Science.

Kazuko Hara was born in Aichi, Japan where she began piano studies at the age of six. She graduated from the Tokyo University of Arts and traveled to Vienna, Austria, to further her training. Hara has performed on both stage and television in Europe and Japan. She has performed concerts in Japan and Germany and will be returning to Japan next year for a concert tour. Locally, she has performed numerous recitals, in addition to serving as a soloist in several churches.

Pauline Thomas will accompany Hara on the piano. Tickets are $10 and $7 for students. Reservations can be made by calling the Cherry Foundation at 624-7491. The church of Religious Science is located at the corners of Pacific and Franklin Streets, Monterey.

Barnyard's Weihnachtsmarket showcases unique puppet theater

ITS AS if fantasy materializes at The Barnyard in Carmel with an ancient tradition from Germany being recreated for the Christmas season. The garden courtyard in the rustic complex is decorated like an old European village, in preparation for the Weihnachtsmarkt, a celebratory feast in honor of St. Nicholas, the legendary figure who predates Santa Claus as the benevolent gift-giver at Christmas.

Merchants display their holiday wares in festive arrangements, while jugglers, musicians, clowns and carolers stroll amidst the revelers who come to enjoy this most unique celebration.

Beginning at noon on Sunday, Dec. 8, the European-style market continues throughout the day with plenty of food, drink and entertainment until, at dusk, St. Nicholas rides into the center of "town" on a great white horse, lifts his golden staff and colorful lights blaze in the night and a choir sings. He then ascends his throne and greets the children with news of their year's past deeds. Were you a good kid? Chocolate coins are passed out to all those who stick around for the grand finale.

At 3:45 p.m., the Old World Puppet Theatre Christmas Show will be presented at Thunderbird For Kids at 3:45 p.m. At the Kid's bookshop, Fine Art Portraiture will be on from noon till 3 p.m. hand to snap that special picture for the holidays.

There will be a "Giving Tree" where needy children's names can be drawn and a gift purchased with a 10% discount.

Thursdays and Fridays until Christmas, The Barnyard will stay open until 9 p.m. It is located off Highway 1 and Carmel Valley Road.

Evening of opera, holiday songs featured in Fridays at 8 series

ON FRIDAY, Dec. 6, Hidden Valley's popular Fridays at 8 series in Carmel Valley presents an evening of opera and holiday songs. The concert will feature internationally known opera conductor and pianist Randall Behr and mezzo soprano Gail Dubinbaum.

Randall Behr is currently resident conductor of the Los Angeles Music Center Opera where he conducted three major works in the 1991-92 season with such singers as Maria Ewing and Placido Domingo. Behr is active internationally having recently conducted a Gala Concert at the Hamburg Staatsoper with Marilyn Horne and Arleen Auger and other performances in Valencia and Barcelona.

As a pianist, Behr has collaborated with Ewing in recitals at Covent Garden, the Teatro Communale in Florence, the Opera de Lyon, the Chatelet in Paris, and the Mozartsaal of the Konzerthaus in Vienna. Behr has served as Music Director of the Aspen Festival Opera Theater and was founding music director of the Hidden Valley Opera Ensemble in Carmel Valley.

Gail Dubinbaum debuted at the Metropolitan Opera in the "Barber of Seville" and is gaining an international reputation, having sung with other major opera companies throughout the United States and Europe.

Dubinbaum has a special love for recital performance and has received critical acclaim for her work in operatic and Lieder recital throughout the United States and Canada.

GAIL DUBINBAUM, mezzo soprano will be paired with pianist Randall Behr at the Fridays at 8 series at Carmel Valley's Hidden Valley.

Tickets to the performance are $12.50 and will be available at the door. Box office opens at 7:30 p.m., show starts at 8 p.m. Non-alcoholic beverages and light snacks will be available.

Hidden Valley is located 11.2 miles east of Highway 1 on Carmel Valley Road. Proceeds benefit the education programs at Hidden Valley. For more information call 659-3115.

Austrian healer hosts series of special events

AUSTRIAN HEALER Renate and her companion Roxi McNay, now on world tour, will be in Carmel for the first time from Dec. 4-10, conducting a series of special events on healing and spiritual discovery. They have each had extraordinary spiritual awakenings and now travel worldwide healing and conducting seminars to help people awaken.

Renate will be laying hands at a public healing evening, Saturday, Dec. 7, at 7 p.m. in the Bingham Room of the Sunset Cultural Center, San Carlos between Eighth and Ninth, Carmel. Donation is $15. All are welcome.

Renate and Roxi will also be presenting a one-day experiential workshop Sunday, Dec. 8 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. entitled "Learning Your Truth." Together, you will be able to explore your own healing abilities, experiment with energy and experience letting go into your own truth. Cost is $75. This event will be held upstairs from the Granary Market, 167C Central Avenue, Pacific Grove.

Renate and Roxi will also be available for private sessions. For further information and reservations contact Patricia Lynn Mann, R.N., M.S., at 659-3031.

Local authors will be featured at holiday booksigning

ARTS & LEISURE

'Arsenic & Old Lace' on screen Dec. 10

THE 1991-92 Second Tuesday Film Fest continues at the Sunset Center in Carmel-by-the-Sea on Tuesday, Dec. 10 at 8 p.m. with a screening of the 1944 classic, Arsenic and Old Lace.

Starring Cary Grant, Josephine Hull, Jean Adair, Raymond Massey and Peter Lorre, this famous black farce was directed by Frank Capra.

Two dotty and well-meaning old ladies invite lonely men to their Brooklyn home, poison them with elderberry wine, and have their mad brother bury them in the cellar. A model for stage play adaptations, Capra shows his particular flair for a frenzy of hilarious activity and coaxes some wonderfully understated performances from his all-star cast.

Ticket at $2.50 are available at the door beginning at 7 p.m. For more information call 624-3996.

Art Association hosts holiday miniature show

Festival of Harps to grace Church of Religious Science

AFTER FILLING San Francisco's Noe Valley ministry to capacity with last year's program of Irish, Welsh, Chinese and contemporary harp music, and then moving uptown to Great American Music Hall, the Festival of Harps is now moving down the coast to grace the Church of Religious Science in Monterey.

Chaskinakuy will be performing the harp music of Peru, accompanied by a haunting variety of ethnic instruments, such as panpipes, charango and drums.

Geist will be playing their original music for harp, Chapman stick and percussion, which combines various World Folk music styles.

Cheryl Ann Fulton will perform music on the Welsh triple-strung harp from her newly released "Airs of Wales" CD, and Twin Harps will feature music especially composed for two identical Neo-Gothic harps.

There will also be special appearances by Monterey Celtic harpist Amy Krupski, Celtic harpist Wendolyn Bird, and story-teller Gabriella Randazzo.

The Festival begins at 8 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 7, at the Church of Religious Science, 400 West Franklin St. (downtown) Monterey. Tickets will be available in the lobby, on the night of the festival starting at 5 p.m. For further information call Joan Thurmond at 375-2883.

Bent out of shape

THE DATE has been set: The 9th annual Pelican Bent-a-fit Ball has been scheduled for 8 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 12 at The Club of Monterey. The zany "ball" is a benefit for the Monterey County Wildlife Center and will feature, among others (cast of characters apt to change at any time), rock bands Stone Crazy from Aromas, Van Gogh's Ear and The Cubes from Monterey, B.F.D. from Salinas, The Unknown Eyes from PG, Santa Cruz' Sangre de Luna and last, but certainly not least, Bent, which is not really a band, more of an unnatural phenomenon.

Once again Bent's leader Jerry Ford will be ringmaster to this wacky happening, perhaps the peninsula's weirdest annual evening of entertainment. The crowning of the Pelican "Queen" is usually a highlight, if it can be called that. One year two guys actually won the title (you have to read a self-scribed poem about pelicans to qualify and it takes two guys to equal one woman). There's a lot of music, humor and high spirits at these gatherings and well-worth the $5 (advance) or $6 door charge. All proceeds benefit the wildlife center and all entertainment is donated by the artists.

The event started several years back when a rash of pelican slashings left the center without the finances to care and feed the birds. The first ball provided 1,425 of fish, enough for a three-month supply. And although the pelican mutilations have stopped, the wildlife center's good works continue, and they still need our help.

For information call 663-5561.

BACK IN '60s era Chicago there were two influential white blues harmonica players, Paul Butterfield, who had the name and a legion of young rock fans, and Charlie Musselwhite, who had the raw, untamed sound of the South Side down pat. The two are credited with helping bring the blues to rock fans with their playing, and while Butterfield appeared to stray farther from his roots with each recording, Musselwhite was content to stick to the down-and-dirty blues style he preferred, starting with his debut on Vanguard, Stand Back!, through a myriad of small labels, until his award-winning debut in 1990 with the blues label Alligator, Ace of Harps.

After kicking around the blues scene for more than 30 years, Musselwhite finally got his due through Ace of Harps, gaining nationwide airplay, a W.C. Handy Award (the blues equivalent of the Grammy), for "Best Instrumentalist of the Year," two nominations for "Blues Song of the Year" (for My Road Lies in Darkness and River Hip Mama, both on Ace of Harps), an appearance on Late Night With David Letterman, and a guest appearance on Australian rockers INXS' platinum album X, playing, what else?, harmonica.

All that just serves as a long-winded introduction to Musselwhite, who will be appearing on the Monterey Peninsula, Monday, Dec. 9 as part of Doc Ricketts' Lab's Blue Monday blues series.

Musselwhite has a new recording out, Signature, also on Alligator, that serves up his trademark smoky harp playing on 10 tunes, six written or co-written by Musselwhite, two featuring a dynamite horn section and another featuring boogiemaster John Lee Hooker. As usual Musselwhite's crack touring band, Andrew Jones Jr., Artis Joyce and Tommy Hill add able support.

Signature roars out of the gates with the uptempo Make My Getaway, but also includes a couple of slow blues, and even one jazzy tune, What's New, that's reminds one of jazz harmonicist Toots Thielmans' work. Another finely crafted blues gem from one of the acknowledged masters of the instrument.

In addition, Signature was just nominated last week for a Bammie (Bay Area Music) Award for "Outstanding Blues Album," joining Alligator labelmate Elvin Bishop, John Lee Hooker, Roy Rogers & Norton Buffalo and Joe Louis Walker.

Tickets for Musselwhite are available at the door or by calling 649-4241.

MORE UPCOMING events with a musical bent on the Monterey Peninsula and outlying areas:

• Portofino Cafe, small as it is, continues to bring in top-notch talent; this week's offerings are no different, starting with all-woman bluegrass Sidesaddle on Thursday, Dec. 5 and including eco-feminist folk artist Alice Di Micele (out of Williams, Ore.), on Saturday, Dec. 7.

Sidesaddle's gig is an album release party for its third recording, Daylight Train, which follows up on the band's popular Saratoga Gap and The Girl From the Red Rose Saloon recordings, the latter hitting number three on the national bluegrass charts shortly after it was released in 1988.

The five-member band, based out of the San Jose/Saratoga area, is rapidly gaining acclaim in the bluegrass world, which has been traditionally male-dominated (as many musical genres are), with their strong harmonies and instrumental prowess.

"This is a straight-ahead bluegrass band that also chooses to lay some modern folk and country tunes. They do a consistently fine job of it," says no less an authority than Bluegrass Unlimited magazine out of Virginia, a bastion of bluegrass music.

Sidesaddle will play from 8 to 10 p.m. so don't be late. The show is co-sponsored by KAZU 90.3 FM.

As for Alice Di Micele (pronounced dee-miss-ellie), she's rapidly making a name for herself for his strong environmental message, her commitment to such issues as peace and justice and women's gay/lesbian and human rights, and her strong musicianship. Take these words from Santa Cruz' Good Times magazine:

"Alice Di Micele has a dynamism to her delivery not always associated with folk music. Not only does she back up her powerful voice with heartfelt conviction in every word, but her guitar ability is fast setting her apart from the sea of folk artists whose repertoire consists mostly of strumming." A Eugene, Ore. newspaper called her "One of the Northwest's finest folk artists."

Playing with her at the 8 p.m. show will be percussionist Deb Grant and guitarist Rick Auerbach. Opening the show will be folk artist Sev Williams.

For more information on either show, call 373-7379. Portofino Cafe is located in the PG Plaza at 620 Lighthouse.

• Doc Ricketts' Lab on Cannery Row has, for its Blue Monday weekly blues series, the aforementioned Charlie Musselwhite on Dec. 9; Roy Rogers & the Delta Rhythm Kings Dec. 12; Jimmy Wood & the Immortals on Dec. 15 (Wood is/was Bruce Springsteen's harmonica player), and Little Charlie & the Nightcats Dec. 16. (Lonnie Brooks has been rescheduled for sometime in January, but you can still catch him at JJ's in San Jose and Mountain View Dec. 11 and 12.)

Local bands slated to play: The Cubes Dec. 6-8;

I WONDER what it takes to get people out to hear great music on the Monterey Peninsula? Apparently everything but a weekend night is out for most people, even for big-name entertainment.

Monday night jazz fusion pioneer Chick Corea and his outstanding Elektric Band played two shows at the New Boiler Room to enthusiastic, but less-than-capacity crowds. Corea is used to selling out 3,000 to 5,000-seat halls in the rest of the country. Just down the block at Doc Ricketts' excellent blues guitarist Debbie Davies was cranking out some righteous blues to, once again, an enthusiastic, but much less-than-capacity crowd.

Of course it was a Monday night following a long holiday weekend; perhaps people were just burned out. Or it could be the depressed economy (although Davies' show was only $5 at the door, less than a movie). Or it could be that Monterey audiences won't support even acts known worldwide (such as Corea). Maybe it's the venues themselves, who knows? Anybody have any thoughts on this phenomenon?

As for the shows themselves, Corea and band were magnificent; in many ways the return of Return to Forever in terms of musicianship, technical virtuosity (especially with regard to all the high-tech gewgaws -- sequencers, synthdrums and such), and in bringing back Corea's trademark stop-and-go, stutter-step changes and swooping breakneck arrangements so familiar during his RTF days. As usual Corea was backed by musicians of impeccable talent and credentials, each taking turns on tour-de-force solos: Eric Marienthal on saxes, Frank Gambale on guitar, Dave Weckl on drums and especially John Patitucci on bass. Gambale shined on his own frenetic composition, Charged Particles, a jazz-rock workout on guitar, with Corea trying to stay with him all the way. Marienthal and Patitucci took turns amazing the audience on the band's final number, a two-parter dedicated to the late Miles Davis, the first part a jazz-fusion blowout, the second the closest the band came to anything resembling traditional jazz, but also showing that these boys could play straight-ahead jazz with the best of them if they so desired. There was only one "slow" tune in the nine-tune set, prompting Corea to crack, "That was the Elektric Band's version of a ballad." A welcome return for one of the fathers of fusion.

As for Debbie Davies, mark my words, she's going to be heard from in the blues world. She's got the talent and the guts to make it in what is essentially a man's world (playing blues guitar). She's as fine a blues guitarist as I've seen in the past decade, man or woman. Now she's just paying her dues as a bandleader.

Jazz Tides

By John Detro

The good news

JOURNALISTS EVERYWHERE face the same old beef — negative news gets more attention than positive stuff. Well, here's some good news that matters. Tim Jackson's a swinging, soulful, entirely serious jazz musician.

Now, I had liked the CD cuts put out there by Real Time (the band with which Tim labors), and the live ensemble sound. But I didn't hear Jackson in extended solo performance till he hit Doc Ricketts' Lab on Cannery Row as part of the Sunday Jazz Series booked by reedman John Cortes.

Tim oversees Kuumbwa Center in Santa Cruz. He's co-producing the 1992 Monterey Jazz Festival with Jimmy Lyons and will become MJF general manager in 1993 (following Jimmy's retirement). The fact we're addressing here and now—Tim's musicianship — says he'll sign people from the insider's viewpoint that fine players have.

Backed by John's rhythm section, guest artist Jackson picked up the flute and dug in. No joke. While too many young flutists sound like windblown lace curtains, Tim gave us a tone that recalled the gutsy lyricism of Frank Wess — he could work a Down Home juke joint without getting jeered out the door. Substantial.

On ballads, Jackson's emotional range and sheer taste evoked the Belgium-born Bobby Jaspar who recorded so significantly with Hank Jones and Kenny Clarke. What a treat when a flute comes on with passion and thoughtfulness at the same time.

Tim said he'll begin pursuing '92 MJF headliners "very soon." He'll honor Jimmy's longtime practice, he added, and release names to this column as soon as finalized contracts come back from the various stars. Springtime's usually when these news items start hitting.

Finally, Jackson said the Kenny Kirkland Band at Kuumbwa next month (1/13) indeed would include genius alto saxist Kenny Garrett. Garrett was a major force in the last Miles Davis group; he recently was at Kimball's East (Emeryville) with Kirkland and his presence at Kuumbwa makes that occasion a must-see.

On Monday night (12/9), Kuumbwa spotlights the McCoy Tyner Trio with brilliant bassist Avery Sharpe and Aaron Scott on drums. Shows at 7:30 and 9:30; $16.50 per through Ticketmaster. Dr. Lawrence Lippmann (Ace Jazz Buff) sponsors this one.

The Doc Ricketts' Lab guest artist for Sunday afternoon (12/8) — guitarist Tim Volpicella. These four-hour occasions start at two o'clock. Freebies.

Volpicella has performed regularly in the San Francisco Bay Area with superb bassist Chuck Israels. And he has worked live and in the recording studio with Chet Baker, Bill Watrous, Robben Ford, John Stowell. At present he's putting together an album of original tunes with pianist Russell Ferrante and drummer Peter Donald.

Windham Hill Records has contributed a new batch of CDs to give away via the Sunday afternoon drawings — Tuck and Patti, Dr. John with tenorist Fathead Newman, Billy Childs, Tuck's solo Christmas album. Raffle tickets are free, but participants may contribute to Youth Music Monterey if they wish.

Coming up at the Lab: Charlie Musselwhite (12/9), Roy Rogers and the Delta Rhythm Kings (12/12), Little Charlie & The Nighcats (12/16).

FUTURE FILE: Concert producer Richard Armbrust says he has nailed down the services of Dave Frishberg and Paul Horn for separate local dates.

Dave's the songwriter, singer and pianist who might well be called the Woody Allen of jazz. He'll join the Fridays at Eight series at Hidden Valley Music Seminars. Next month (1/17/92).

Flutist/saxist Horn will appear on Sunday evening, Jan. 19, at the Steinbeck Forum. Richard: "He'll work with well-known area players being contacted by Bob Phillips (pianist and music director for the event)." Tickets will cost $15 apiece. Info: 455-2292.

On the preceding Saturday night (1/18), Pastor Bill Little's Pacific Coast Church will present Horn in a "meditative musical solo flute experience" at Carmel Mission Basilica.

Admission's $15 per or $12.50 advance (by Jan. 10). Do Re Mi Music has tickets. Info: 626-8538.

BARGAIN CORNER: Collectors really shouldn't miss KAZU Public Radio's annual Holiday Record Sale from 10 a.m. till 5 p.m. on Saturday (12/7). It's in Room 310 of American Tin Cannery Outlet Center.

Promised among many hundreds of items: jazz and blues CDs, tapes, vinyl. (I've always found worthwhile albums for not much money at these housecleanings.)

Additionally, all-event badges for the upcoming Dixieland Monterey (3/6-8/92) may be had at the "discounted rate of $35" through the end of this month. So says festival chairman Ed Greco. Regular rate: $40 (which clicks back into place 1/1/92).

And special patron badges are available ($100 each). These provide preferred seating and entry into private receptions.

"For the second year," Ed concludes, "Dixieland Monterey offers a Corporate Sponsorship Program which allows local businesses to become involved by buying one of five different packages."

More information on any of these elements may be obtained by calling 443-5260 or 373-3793.

At MPC Music Hall on Sunday afternoon (12/8), the door charge is — zero, zip, nada. The public's invited to the concert put together by Don Schamber's MPC Jazz Ensemble and D.L. Johnson's North Monterey County High Jazz Ensemble.

"Contemporary works as well as old standards," says Don, "will be performed by the two award-winning bands." Four o'clock kick.

SIGHT BITES: KQED-TV swings with two specials on Saturday night (12/7) begining at eight o'clock. First it's Harry Connick, Jr. and his orchestra in concert. And at 9:30 — Duke Ellington: Reminiscing in Tempo. This show traces Duke's career from the Cotton Club to 1960s jazz fests.

• This area's Helcio Milito (percussionist) and Weber Drummond (keyboards) will take part in the All-Star Jazz Festival being staged by Kimball's of San Francisco (12/11-14). They'll work opening night with pianist and event producer Larry Vuckovich.

• Yoshi's in Oakland will showcase Branford Marsalis (12/10-14). He's touring with drummer Jeff Watts and Robert Hurst on bass.

• The Fumigators blues band plays Monterey

Holiday Toy Drive Highlights Shows at GWS & New Masters Galleries

California artists Charles Wysocki and Will Bullas love kids. Their artwork always reflects the fun, joy and happiness of childhood. And what happier times are there for children than Christmas? In a special effort to bring this joy and happiness to local underprivileged children, these two popular California artists join with their respective galleries to sponsor "Gifts from the Heart," a holiday toy drive for children. Beginning November 9 through December 15, everyone is invited to bring a new, unwrapped toy to GWS Galleries and receive a free poster of Charles Wysocki's very popular "Clammers At Hodge's Horn" or to New Masters Gallery and receive Will Bullas' new holiday release, "Puppy Glove."

Youthful words

THANK HEAVEN for writers who compose high-quality works with our youngsters in mind.

A pair of such professionals will be present Saturday (12/7) over at Pacific Grove's Bookworks as their joint signing and reception runs from noon till two o'clock.

Interested parties will meet Mary Craft and Paul Fleishman. "Paul has a large publisher," says Mary. "I am self-published and a retired Monterey Peninsula Unified School District teacher."

Her Cruz and Slick brings forth a true story about two sea otters who fall on hard times and regain their healthful freedom via human helpers. "It's for all ages," the author informs. "Reading level is the primary grades."

Paul's The Borning Room takes place during the Civil War and tells of an Ohio girl. Directed toward ages 11-14.

PARTY TIME: The next day (Sunday 12/8) Barbara Murphy's Portofino Coffee House in Pacific Grove Plaza will be the setting for those whose work graces and propels the latest Poetry Shell. Wordsmiths will greet visitors and sign copies of the for-sale publication from 10 a.m. till 4 p.m.

The non-profit booklet was edited by Paul Spencer, who announced winners of the 20th anniversary verse contest sponsored by Poetry Shell. "Their poems all are in the 1991 edition," he says.

Topping the Adult Serious Verse category: Jose Abarrientos (first), Soon Chul Lee (second), Olga Jarel (third).

Adult Light Verse: Beth Blakeman, Beverly Borgman, Roe Sherman.

Teenage Verse: Jennifer McCall, Bree Hill, Lucia Prejean.

Juvenile Verse: Kristina Hunken, Wendy Chapa, Phillip Konzem.

PILGRIM'S WAY Bookstore of Carmel schedules its annual Christmas Open House Celebration from 4-8 p.m. Friday (12/6). The invitation says: "In the spirit of the season, please join us and share the warmth and camaraderie that have made Pilgrim's Way a safe haven for all the spiritual pilgrims everywhere. We'll have fun and refreshments too."

At seven o'clock Wednesday night (12/11), Pilgrim's Way offers another program in its Lifting the Veils series. "Our guest will be Elisa Lodge and her subject will be Embodying the Spirit: An Ecstatic Ecology of Being, Using Breath, Sound, Movement, Masks and Ritual. Elisa is a contemporary shaman, expressive arts therapist, certified Rolfing movement teacher, professional actress...She will lead us in an experiential evening."

BOOKS, ETC.

The Book Tree

And what a delightful place. Owner Anna Binicos: "So many publishers shoot at the lowest common denominator. We're proudest of bypassing dross and finding the real gems in various fields." The former librarian's special fun? "Tracking down older things for people, getting to know these readers, sharing their enthusiasms. There's never a fee for the detective work. And our Special Order Service - anything in print - is quick."

For the Holidays, remember...large array of 1992 calendars...from Ansel Adams to Monet and World Wildlife Fund. New books, of course. Sale titles. Rather special emphases on psychology, women's studies, photography, literary classics. At 118 Webster near Monterey Post Office. Hours: 10-5:30 Monday through Friday; 11-5 Saturdays. 373-0228. Vibrant atmosphere.

Britannica LEARNING CENTER formerly The Reading Game

What an unusual and thoughtful holiday gift. Purpose expressed by Director Phyllis Stebbins: "To foster the true love of reading". Those who work with the Center's experienced teachers, incentive programs, brilliant methods - from pre-school youngsters to busy business people - end up reading faster and better and so much more. On average, just 48 hours of instruction = a year's academic growth. Individual testing, goal-setting, schedule design.

Call today for a truly life-changing appointment - 372-2090. Convenient Monterey location: 200 Camino Aguajito... Suite 201.

An independently-owned franchise. Program proven since 1970. And committed to the joyous practicality of graceful reading.

CARMEL BOOK EMPORIUM - This area's newest bookshop emphasizes high quality and 60 sections (ultimately 100) and a big stone fireplace round which folks may browse contentedly. Management promises computerized ordering that assures "the best possible turnaround time."

Special attention is given to mysteries, creative writing, the lively arts - and of course the tops in contemporary fiction. Videos include such special contexts as Oscar-winning Best Pictures over the past 20 years. And PBS productions. And music tapes and CDs (local players too). Before long, Carmel Book Emporium will add a cafe - perfect meeting spot.

On Lobos Lane in The Crossroads (a few steps from Safeway). Open 10-6 Sunday/Thursday; 10-8 Friday/Saturday. 626-BOOK.

EDUCATIONAL STUFF, INC. - It's true. Literally thousands of learning tools for youngsters from infancy to middle school age.

BACH NOTES

CARMEL BACH FESTIVAL

By Nana Faridany

Big changes

THERE ARE big changes at the Carmel Bach Festival for 1992 though we will retain our basic format and our well-loved traditions. Since our new maestro, Bruno Weil, lives in Germany and has a major career in Europe, he has delegated the programming of some of our activities to long-time Festival talents. We'd like to tell you about these innovations in this monthly column.

Jesse Read, Festival favorite and principal bassoon, will be programming our chamber music recital series which takes place every afternoon and some mornings. Jesse is professor of bassoon at U.B.C. in Vancouver and conductor of their orchestra, as well as being a major recording artist. We asked Jesse to comment in general on what his series would be like next summer and we received the following mouth-watering stream of consciousness which we pass on to you.

"The ornate music rooms of the nobility of the 18th century served as focal points for social discourse, political foment, courtly love and intrigue, as well as for the exposition of the highest forms of the arts in current vogue. Paintings, brocade, fine furniture, metalwork, glass, decorative sculpture, all provided the setting for continuous action."

"Always ready for a command, a request, a dance to break out, the atmosphere to be subdued, the musicians and the resident composer...this, the epitome of chamber music. . . at home ...surrounded and surrounding the allied arts and sympathies. Music to be listened to, to dance to, to sing along with, to soothe the aging ruler at bedtime, to excite, to remind of past glory, to fascinate, intrigue, ENTERTAIN!"

"The kindly, gentle father, Johann Sebastian Bach, knew his dances, the gavotte, sarabande, jig, and in and amongst all those sublime cantatas, passions, Brandenburg Concertos, fugues and magnificats, a French Suite, an English Suite, a Trio Sonata, a Partita . . . all just the right size for the music room!"

"Music for the inner chambers. Music with the excitement of the day whirling around it. Music so delicate that the listener leans forward to get it all . . . miniatures, but so full of detail to captivate and enchant for hours afterward."

"Far from the ornate rooms . . . Zimmerman's Coffeehouse, 14 Catherine Strasse, Leipzig . . . every Friday evening, J.S. Bach arrived to conduct an assemblage of young musicians—the Collegium Musicum, the local music society. The audience was the loyal patronage of the coffeehouse, and Bach often brought along one or two of his sons to assist in the music-making."

"Perhaps the wandering minstrels and troubadors of the 14th and 15th century started it . . . music during dinner, music to carry a love-message, and the dancing—everywhere dancing."

"Each afternoon in late July in Carmel, in the midst of the chaos and boisterous force of the summer mood, the doors swing open to the Sunset Center, and for a brief moment the music transports one back to that time. Music for small, virtuoso ensembles of gifted musicians—Chamber Music unique and refreshing."

"The combinations . . . Imagine three trumpets, three oboes—brilliant! Two harpsichords in intimate dialogue . . . four solo violins—the stage knee-deep in trills, runs and thirty-second notes!"

"Father Bach smiles down especially upon the Wednesday recital, cornerstone of the series, an all-Bach recital with solo music for violin, cello, harpsichord and the most well-known and beloved of the sacred cantatas, No. 82, "Ich habe genug," (I have enough) sung by baritone Daniel Lichti (with the voice like crushed velvet). Father Bach smiles with pride as the family is so well represented: Johann Christian Bach (the "London" Bach), Carl Phillip Emmanuel Bach (the "Eccentric" Bach), Wilhelm Friedemann Bach, all contributing a bit of music, a dance, a moment.

Only an overnight here, tomorrow we travel forward to visit Handel, Haydn, and even hear from the young Beethoven, who himself worshipped at the feet of the master. Imagine, every day for a week, a new and exciting journey back into those rooms where music lived, (still lives), on the recital series of the Carmel Bach Festival."

There is nothing remarkable about it. All you have to do is hit the right key at the right time and the instrument plays itself.

Theater Review

By Joe Guzaitis

The charm of enchantment

THE STAFF Players Repertory Company has opened The Enchanted by Jean Giraudoux in the Indoor Forest Theater for a three-week run.

The play is an engaging comedy dealing with the conflict between reality and fantasy in a small French town. A young woman teacher full of notions about the spirit world is set upon by several inhabitants of the town (as well as a government inspector,) and exhorted to give up her delusions. Giraudoux often used young women as symbols of candid innocence who must eventually grow up and enter what he called the "terrible convent of human beings" with its heartache and disillusion.

However, this play allows for a romantic rescue that is more in keeping with its comedic nature. In the telling of the tale there are a number of other characters who provide amusement as well; the teacher's young students, two gossipy crones, a ghost, and two ghost-catchers.

Giraudoux ,was a proponent of "literary theater" which stressed the importance of text. This is a talky play - which is a good kind of play to mount on a diminutive stage like the Indoor Forest Theater — but what talk! The dialog is a continuous stream of wit and humor, usually intended by the characters, but in the case of the inspector, sometimes not. Giraudoux was also an essayist and novelist and his work in general is characterized by virtuosity and verbal extravagance. His most performed plays are Tiger at the Gates and Madwoman of Chaillot.

The performers seemed to enjoy doing this play and that adds to an overall enjoyable theatrical experience for everyone. This is also a very strong cast overall. Larry Earlix is the Goverment Inspector who comes to visit the small town and investigate these supernatural goings-on. His superb performance wrings every ounce of comic potential out of the very funny character and had me clutching my sides.

Isabel is delicately played by Maria Lojkovic. She captures the ethereal quality of a woman in touch with "the other side." Ellis Abee plays a good town Mayor, at once disturbed and compassionate, a comfort to the young Isabel. Thomas Sanchez is very sophisticated as the Doctor who is bemused by the whole thing but tries to support Isabel when he can. Jim Alter is the Supervisor or Weights and Measures who comes around to falling in love with Isabel by the end of the play. The ghost is played by Donavan Dolan with a nice sardonic touch. Pamela Murphy and Nancy Methenitis give us a satisfying version of the aged Mangebois sisters, one deaf and the other addled, who lend a very humorous touch to the proceedings.

The direction is by Marcia Hovick who does wonders with a lot of people in a small space. For all its talk, the production moves briskly and the overall effect is quite pleasing. The sets show more effort than those of the spartan production of Deirdre of the Sorrows. There are even wall murals reminiscent of Magritte, no doubt the work of accomplished set artist Ramie Wikdahl. Costumes were by Loel Schuler and were nicely turned out and quite plausible for the period.

The Enchanted runs through Dec. 21 at 8 p.m. on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights. Sunday matinees are at 2:30 p.m.

Theater Review

By James P. Kinney

Gut-wrenching drama

SORDID. VIOLENT. Unforgiving. Raw. Bleak. Disintegrating. Dysfunctional. Gut-wrenching. All these words aptly describe the world populated by the six characters of Octavio Solis in his new naturalistic play, Prospect, opening this past weekend at El Teatro Campesino in San Juan Bautista.

Naturalism in literature, theater and the graphic arts posits an instinctual, unidealized depiction of life. One thinks of O'Neill's The Iceman Cometh, most of Strindberg and much of Ibsen. Yet, as always in true art and literature, there are glimmers of hope, whispers of change, and hints of redemption, all the more exciting in their scarcity.

They are here in this honest, frightening, but always moving and entertaining play. Scout (Bruno Cisneros) is an uptight young Latino running from his ethnic background. He casually stops into a crummy Dallas bar and strikes up conversations with the young waitress, Red (Christianne Hauber), and Liza (Madeleine Gavin), who is impatiently waiting for her date, Vince (Dennis Matthews). A flashy, cocky drug dealer, Winter (Hansford Prince) enters and takes an instant dislike to Scout. He starts to badger him verbally and emotionally.

Vince (Dennis Matthews), a gregarious Italian giant finally arrives and, operating as peacemaker, invites everybody over to his house to party. Thus begins a long night of drinking, dope and confrontation, focusing mostly on Elena (Vetza Trussell), Vince's seriously ill wife, and the uneasy Scout. Arguments break out. Accusations and revelations are made.

Each of the characters is, in his own unique way, the wounded victim of a falling-apart society, trying to survive in a haze of booze, cocaine and easy sex. But there is abundant humor too.

"You got a voice like a hand puppet," one character barks to one of the women. "We snag onto each other like pieces of barbed wire," complains another. Thin-skinned, angry, touchy, they keep trying to connect with each other in clumsy, awkward, ineffective ways. It's as if the playwright is trying to say, "This is what we got dealt, folks. Not very neat, not very pretty, but we got to keep on trying."

The young cast is a good one. Cisneros, an actor from Phoenix, demonstrates great sensitivity as he shows a Scout groping towards a decision that he can no longer deny his Latino roots. Trussell, a native of Guatemala and current L.A. resident, delivers an Elena who is a tough and profane but vulnerable woman facing an early, unwelcomed death.

Prince, a veteran performer from the-Bay Area, brings a sharp-edged believability to the volatile, dangerous Winter. Gavin, who has worked in theaters in New York, San Diego and Mexico, gets us inside a tortured Liza forced to choose between her nihilistic partying and the responsibilities of a parent.

Matthews shows great animal energy and vitality as the loud, engaging Vince, snagging many of the show's best laugh lines. Hauber, another Bay Area resident, is entirely believable as the sultry waitress, Red.

Playwright Octavio Solis, a resident of San Francisco, has been tagged one of the most promising young American playwrights of the 90s. Other plays like Man of the Flesh, Impatiens, La Illuminada, and Geometricia Cycle have been performed in Dallas, New York, Chicago, Seattle and San Francisco.

Director Tony Curiel has been involved with El Teatro since 1983 and has in the past directed the two Christmas pageant plays of El Teatro, La Pastorella and La Virgen Del Tepeyac, as well as The Dark Root of a Scream, Soldado Razo, and the wonderful Latino comedy reviewed here a few seasons back, I Don't Have to Show You No Stinking Badges. Curiel currently teaches in the Theatre Department of U.C. San Diego.

A PBS Special of La Pastorella, especially adapted and directed for TV by FTC founder Luis Valdez, will be aired this coming Dec. 23rd (Monday evening), 9 to 10:30 p.m. The show includes appearances by Linda Ronstadt, Cheech Marin, Paul Rodriguez, Robert Beltram, Freddy Fender and many local actors from San Juan Bautista who will also appear live in the traditional performances at the Old Mission of San Juan between Nov. 30 and Dec. 15. Call 623-2444 for tickets.

Prospect runs through Dec. 8th, Fridays at 8 p.m. Saturdays at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m., Sundays at 2 p.m. Call 623-2444 for tickets and information. Exciting new writers; new plays. It's part of the El Teatro experience.

Point of Departure

The Big Sur Players will reprise their production of Bruce Ariss' Point of Departure, Friday through Sunday, Dec. 6-8 and Friday and Saturday, Dec. 13-14 at the Monterey Playhouse, 425 Washington St., Monterey.

All shows will be at 8 p.m. except for Dec. 8, set for 3 p.m.

Cast almost entirely in Big Sur, the 18-character play dramatizes a hoax perpetrated by friends and neighbors of Big Sur author and resident Henry Miller that resulted in national exposure. The incident received worldwide attention as "The Henry Miller Sex Cult Incident" even though it never existed.

The play, written by Ariss 40 years ago, premiered at the Big Sur Grange Hall in October to rave reviews.

The play is directed by Jeremy Slate and features several members of the Big Sur Players, including founders J. Perham Slate and Kim Candler.

For more information, call 625-4211 or 373-7713.

Dial 'M' for Murder

Frederick Knott's classic mystery-thriller, Dial 'M' for Murder continues at the original GroveMont Theater Arts Center, located at 320 Hoffman (between Lighthouse and Hawthorne) in New Monterey.

Directed by Sandy Williams, the play will run Thursdays (at 8 p.m.) through Sundays (at 7 p.m.) with a 2 p.m. Sunday matinee Dec. 8 (there will be no evening performance on that day).

The production features Marlie Avant, Alan Smith, Michael Kelly, John D'Auria and Jim Walters, Jr. The production closes Sunday, Dec. 22.

For further information, call 649-6852 or 649-0340.

Once in a Lifetime

The Western Stage concludes its 1991 season with Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman's comedy of early Hollywood, Once in a Lifetime, now through Dec. 15 in the Studio Theater of the Hartnell College Performing Arts Center in Salinas.

Once in a Lifetime is a roaring satire of the days of the talkies in old Hollywood and was the first collaboration of Hart and Kaufman, who were also responsible for The Man Who Came to Dinner and Merrily We Roll Along.

Showtimes are at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and 2 and 7 p.m. Sundays, with a special performance to benefit The Disabled Actor's and Patron's Equipment Fund on Dec. 12.

For ticket information, please call 755-6816 or 375-2111.

The Enchanted

The Staff Players Repertory Company will honor the holidays with Jean Giraudoux' wonderful fantasy The Enchanted, directed by Marcia Gambrell Hovick.

Set in a small French town near a lake, The Enchanted tells the tale of a ghost, a spirited young teacher, her precocious pupils and an assortment of very French bureaucrats.

The Enchanted opened Nov. 29, and will play Thursday, Friday, Saturday at 8 p.m. and Sundays at 2:30 p.m. through Dec. 21.

Members of Staff Players welcome seven girls from C.E.T. into the holiday production.

Jean Giraudoux, best known as the author of The Madwoman of Chailott, is wry, wise, and witty in his tale of a town jerked backward and forward between this world and the next. The Enchanted is a warm and joyful entertainment for the season.

The cast includes Ellis Allbee as the mayor, Thomas R. Sanchez as the doctor, Jim Alter as the mild supervisor of weights and measures, Larry Earlix as the martinet of an inspector, Pamela Murphy and Nancy Lee Methenitis as the inquisitive Mangebois Sisters, Ivan Flansberg as an executioner, Maria Lojkovic as Isabel, and Donavan Dolan as the ghost.

For reservations call Staff Players Repertory Company at 624-1531.

Prospect

Written by Octavio Solis and directed by Tony Curiel, San Juan Bautista's El Teatro Campesino's production of Prospect continues through Dec. 8 at the El Teatro Campesino Playhouse, 705 Fourth St. in the Old Mission Pueblo of San Juan Bautista.

Prospect is a highly charged play centering on the intertwining and complex lives of characters in a house on Prospect Street. Although often humorous, Curiel describes their reality as gritty and not necessarily a pretty picture of their everyday life.

The multi-cultural casting includes Bruno Cisneros, Vetza Trussell, Dennis Matthews, Madeleine Gavin, Hansford Prince and Christianne Hauber.

Performances are on Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 and Saturday and Sunday matinees at 2.

Advance ticket reservations are available by calling 623-2444 (Visa and MasterCard accepted). Prospect is a professional Actors Equity presentation.

A triumphant return

THE SHOSTAKOVICH String Quartet, long established as one of the foremost practitioners of their genre, made a triumphant return to Carmel to perform in Sunset Center Theater. Once again appearing under the auspices of the Chamber Music Society of the Monterey Peninsula, they created a memorable musical experience for a large and appreciative audience.

Andrei Shishlov and Sergei Pishchugin, violins; Alexander Galkovsky, viola; and Alexander Korchagin, cello, all attended the Moscow Conservatory. They could be expected to share similar artistic views and principles and indeed they did.

Opening with Borodin "String Quartet no. 2 in D Major" was not only a programming innovation, but also a dangerous musical gesture on the part of the group. The work is so intrinsically lovely and so inescapably associated with musical comedy, that in order to avoid the banal, there must be a superiorly noble performance to maintain the level of seriousness expected at such a concert. Happily, the quartet delivered just such a performance.

The lyricism of the first movement with its songful, warm-toned cello theme was gracefully explicated. The antiphonal discussions between the instruments was played with freedom and flexibility while still pursuing the character of the music. Borodin employed his forces to sing rather than to develop ideas. The virtuosity he demanded was handled with great subtlety, particularly by the first violinist whose musical strengths and leadership were a tremendous plus, one not always in evidence in other well known string quartets.

In the Scherzo, well-known themes made for delightful listening. The players gave freshness and lilting rhythmic impetus to the music. The Nocturne, undoubtedly the most popular piece of Russian chamber music ever composed, and which exists in innumerable arrangements, was another exquisitely performed movement. After all, it isn't Borodin's fault that this music has enjoyed such universal appeal and wide circulation. The musicians surmounted this problem by playing with consummate skill and a refined yet sympathetic interpretive concept.

The remarkable finale with its great ensemble difficulties and demanding virtuosic part writing was clean, precise and accurate. The playing was brilliant, the spirit exciting and the effect was totally memorable.

The "Quartet no. 13 in B Flat Minor" op. 138 by Dmitri Shostakovich was the exact antithesis of the Borodin Quartet. It is atmospheric rather than lyrical, deeply introspective rather than outgoing, and easily accessible. It begins with a viola recitative, which was mellow-toned and serious. In fact, the viola was unusually prominent in this work and Alexander Galkovsky was outstanding, but then so were his three associates whenever their music brought them to the fore, which was very often in this quartet. The bleak, moody yet open texture of the work revealed the capabilities of each member of the group in high relief, but with expert relative balance. There was much to hear in this music with its uncompromising seriousness and deeply contemplative atmosphere. Again the interpretation was admirable and could not be faulted.

The Schumann "Quartet no. 3 in A Major: op. 41, again in a different compositional style, was offered in a strong, but also a refined romantic interpretation. The graceful first movement was played with lively attacks, well-shaped phrasing and close-knit ensemble. The Scherzo is a set of well molded variations which must be a group effort and the playing was very cohesive. The Adagio's introspective essence was captured with understanding, particularly by the violist and cellist.

The Rondo finale has a gaily syncopated theme with a dancelike spirit. The smooth and virtuosic playing and the secure mastery of the precise, right-on-target attacks coupled with the sparkle and fire of the musicians created the requisite sense of excitement to bring the concert to a thrilling close. The audience demonstrated their appreciation very unmistakably and emphatically.

As an encore, Bartok's "Roumanian Dances" were played very stylishly and with great flavorful acumen. I can't help wishing and wondering whether the Chamber Music Society can bring the Shostakovich Quartet back again soon. Their quality of music making is truly a rare and treasurable treat.

Jungian workshop looks into truths of Christian traditions

TRUTHS THAT are "anchored deep in the soul" in the Christian traditions are the focus of a workshop sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Friends of C.G. Jung scheduled for 7 p.m. Friday, Dec. 7, at All Saints' Church, Ninth and Dolores, Carmel.

Participants will read excerpts from an essay: "Depth Psychology as the New Dispensation" — Reflections on Jung's Answer to Job—written by Dr. Edward F. Edinger, a Jungian analyst practicing in Los Angeles. Discussion and questions will revolve around selected quotations, such as, "The hallmark of individuation is the differentiation of the individual psyche from its containment in the collective psyche."

There will also be opportunity for private reflections and work in dyads on provocative questions.

The public is invited to this and all other activities sponsored by the Friends of Jung. This is an informal group of people who are sharing an enthusiasm for the seminal ideas of the noted Swiss physician. Discussion such as the planned event help them make applications of those ideas in their everyday lives. A modest donation is suggested.

For further information, call or write: 649-4018; 284 Foam Street, Monterey.

Dec. 11 is final event of 'Creative Convergence' series

THE CARL Cherry Foundation, Center for the Arts and the Monterey Institute for Research in Astronomy (MIRA), will end "Creative Convergence? The Debate Continues," their jointly sponsored year-long series of lectures on creativity in the arts and sciences on Wednesday, Dec. 11. The final event, "The Wind-Up (Or, No Holds Barred)" is to be a panel discussion of four and will feature psychologist/author/photographer Marilyn Barrett of Santa Cruz as moderator.

Participants on the panel are series lecturers Bonnie Gartshore, Stancil Johnson, and Bruce Weaver, joined by Cherry Foundation president and MIRA board member Lynne Chester. These four represent a wide range of vocations and avocations. Gartshore, a columnist for The Herald, is also a poet and teacher for Hartnell College at Soledad Prison. Johnson is a Carmel psychiatrist, frisbee expert, Sherlock Holmes scion, and Pooh annotator. Weaver is an astrophysicist—senior astronomer and president of MIRA. Chester, in addition to her community involvement, is an award-winning haiku writer, a printmaker, and an active and recently shown potter.

"The Wind-Up" will begin at 7:30 at the Cherry Foundation, Fourth and Guadalupe in Carmel. Admission is $5, or $4 for Cherry Foundation or MIRA members. For further information, call 624-7491.

The entire series of lectures and panel discussion was made possible, in part, by grants from the City of Carmel and the Monterey County Cultural Council.

Barbershoppers annual show set for Dec. 7

THE MONTEREY Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, Inc., will present its annual concert of barbershop harmony on Saturday evening, Dec. 7 at 8 p.m. in Carmel's Sunset Theater. This year's production will be What the Dickens (or a Partridge in a Parody). According to Larry Sparks, general chairman of this year's show, the chorus will make an effort to warm Scrooge's heart with a four-part rendering of secular holiday melodies. The Cypressaires chorus will be joined by two championship visiting quartets, Special Feature and the Usual Suspects.

The local chapter is one of nearly 800 throughout the United States, Canada, Great Britain, Ireland, Australia, New Zealand and the Scandanavian countries formed to sustain and preserve an American tradition — singing in the barbershop-singing style. Today it is the largest fraternity of singers in the world with more than 38,000 members. The Monterey Chapter was founded in 1956 and boasts over 30 members from all walks of life.

Tickets to Saturday evening's show are being sold at the Monterey County Theater Alliance Box Office, phone 655-3200. Any remaining tickets will be available at the Sunset Theater Box Office, beginning one hour prior to the show.

'Writing what sells' topic at Dec. 9 Writer's Club meeting

"WHAT SELLS and How To Sell It," is the topic to be addressed at the Monday, Dec. 9 meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Writers Club. Maxine Shore, a former book editor for Harper's Publishers in New York City, is the featured guest speaker.

Shore received her university degree from McCallister College in St. Paul, Minn. with majors in English and French and minors in drama and education. She has lived in Minnesota, New York and California, and worked as a writer most of her life.

Shore has written seven historical books, both fiction and non-fiction. They were published by various New York houses, including Harper's and David McKay. She has sold hundreds of articles, short stories and plays, which have appeared in local and national publications. Other writing experiences include freelance journalism and radio and TV script writing.

Since moving to the Carmel area, Shore has taught many creative writing classes and workshops. Her students have published more than 50 books, as well as numerous magazine and newspaper stories and articles.

The program begins at 7 p.m. in the Community Room of the Monterey Public Library at 625 Pacific St. All interested persons are welcome to attend without charge. For further club information, call 372-6052.

Messiah Sing set for Dec. 8

THE 19th annual Messiah Sing will be held at the Pacific Grove United Methodist Church (Sunset and 17 Mile Drive) on Sunday, Dec. 8, at 4:00 p.m.

This traditional concert is open to the public and there is no fee. The director will be John Farr, music director of the Pacific Grove United Methodist Church. Judy Midgeley will be the organist.

The one-hour sing-along includes highlights from Handel's greatest and best-known oratorio, "Messiah." Singers are urged to attend.

All are encourage to come and sing, not just to listen. For further information, please contact John Farr at 372-5875 or Raymond Kelly at 624-4490. This event is co-sponsored by the Church of the Wayfarer, Carmel.

Carmel Plaza Holiday Open House

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1991 6:30 P.M. TO 8:30 P.M.

Carmel Plaza Associates and Merchants invite you and your family to attend our annual Holiday Open House to be held in the Plaza courtyard amidst our Winter Wonderland. ❦ Friday, December 6, 1991 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. (immediately following the City of Carmel tree lighting ceremony). Our Holiday gift to you...food and refreshments, Christmas carollers, strolling musicians, puppet shows, complimentary pictures with Santa and Mrs. Claus in their Carmel cottage and free parking in our parking garage on Mission Street. ❦ View the works of local fine artists depicting their interpretations of Christmas in Carmel. ❦ Join KMST's Alan Richmond as Master of Ceremonies in welcoming Terrence Farrell, internationally known classical guitarist whose music will be featured. A portion of the proceeds from the sale of his tape, A Carmel Christmas, will be donated to The Monterey Alzheimer's Association. Also in attendance will be local artist Bill Bates and publisher Marie Wilson; a portion of the proceeds from the sale of their cookbook, A Taste of Carmel, will be donated to the S.P.C.A. of Monterey County. Visit our Tree of Animals benefitting the S.P.C.A.

Last year 105,000 Americans under age 65 died of heart attacks. In fact, 45 percent of all heart attacks happen to people younger than 65. If you're old enough to be concerned about heart disease, be wise enough to take the steps recommended by the American Heart Association to reduce your risk. Don't smoke. Reduce the fat and cholesterol in your diet. And control high blood pressure. Act now. Because it's never too early to start taking care of yourself.

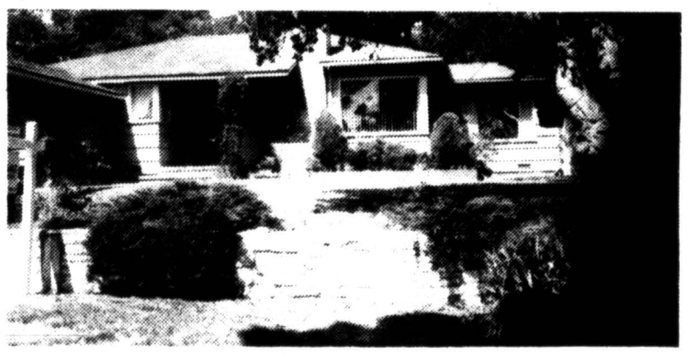
AN OCEAN DREAM

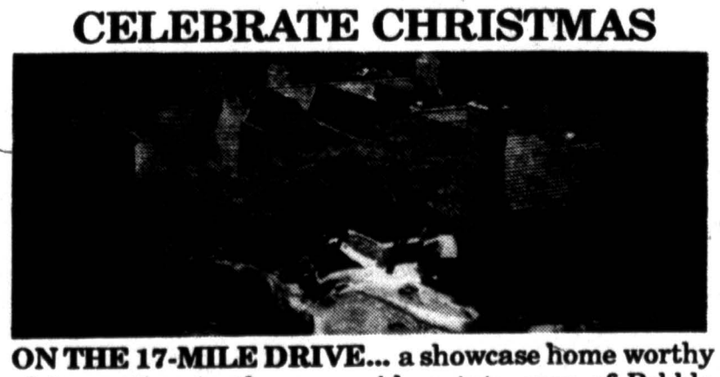
JUST LISTED on Carmel's Scenic Road...a fascinating three-bedroom home looking across the sparkling ocean to that magical land called Point Lobos. Called "Green Breakers," this one-story home sits low on a lot of more than 9,000 square feet, affording a sunny, sheltered rose garden on the land side. The living room has an arched ceiling, along with corner floor-to-ceiling windows so you can see every bit of the water. You can also revel in water views from two of the bedrooms, while the third looks out to the garden. Call for an appointment now! $2,290,000.

SNUG AS A BUG



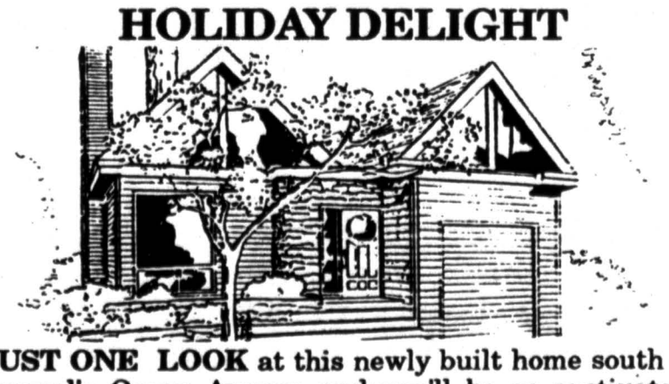
LOCATION COUNTS... a two bedroom home in one of Monterey's best neighborhoods, nicely sited on a big lot and with a trim lawn in front and a big patio and garden in back. Inside, you'll find a nice living room with handsome white brick fireplace, a kitchen with sunny dining area on one side, and a convenient indoor laundry on the other, plus a bath with gleaming new tile. This home is within walking distance of schools, and it's convenient to shops. $268,000.

CELEBRATE CHRISTMAS



ON THE 17-MILE DRIVE... a showcase home worthy of its setting in the oceanside estate area of Pebble Beach...perfectly placed on more than two and one-half acres of landscaped grounds. It's a home that's just right for comfortable family living and entertaining, indoors or out, formally or casually. The generous floor space includes three large bedrooms, big living room, separate dining room, family room, spectacular kitchen, and a guest apartment. And wherever you need a fireplace, you'll find one—five in all. $5,990,000. A joy to show!

HOLIDAY DELIGHT



JUST ONE LOOK at this newly built home south of Carmel's Ocean Avenue and you'll be so captivated, you'll want it for your very own Christmas present. Everything has been carefully thought out for ease of living. The result is an open, airy feeling with a floor plan that lends itself to entertaining and everyday living. All the same, there's a cozy feeling that makes you want to curl up in front of the fireplace with a good book. Big living room with cathedral ceiling, dining area next to a dream kitchen with skylight to let in floods of sunlight, two good bedroms, two baths, and laundry. $794,000.
